SENATOR LEWIS WARNS U. S. OF DANGER OF WAR WITH ALLIES

L MAY GET RID OF TUBES

The public trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company today notified Secretary of State A. P. Langtry of their intention to petition the next Legislature for relief from certain of the financial obligations now borne entirely by the car riders and which are responsible in part for the eight-cent fare.

The trustees will ask:

1—For the purchase of the Cambridge subway by the State or by some sub-division of the State (Boston and Cambridge, for example).

2—For the assumption in whole or in part by the communities which the Boston Elevated Railway Company serves of the subway rentals and taxes payable by the Elevated in respect to the lines owned, leased and operated by it.

MIGHT SAVE $100,000 YEARLY.

The Cambridge subway is the only subway system built and owned by the Elevated itself. When the Boston Elevated bill was before the last Legislature it was said that the Cambridge subway was financed by the issuance of $5,000,000 of 7 per cent. stock. It was said at the time that if the State acquired the subway it could finance it by issuance of 5 per cent. bonds, which would save the car riders 2 per cent. upon $9,000,000, or $180,000 a year.

While the second section of the public trustees' statement to the Secretary of State was clothed in the broad language of a general petition, it is assumed to be their purpose to ask the Legislature to relieve the car riders of at least $1,000,000 of the rentals now paid for the use of the Boston subways.

It was asserted at the time of the legislative hearing that the car riders alone are compelled to pay the subway rentals which were described as "a millstone round the neck of the Elevated," although the advantages of the subway are enjoyed by all the people who do business in Boston.

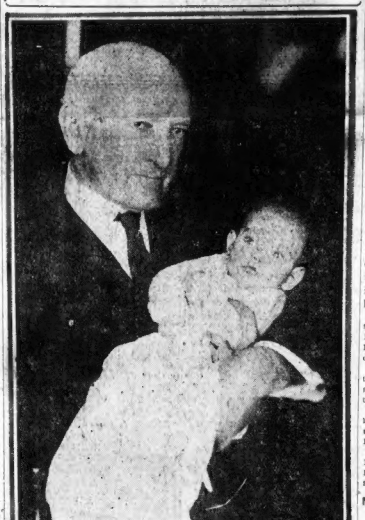
SHOULD SHARE BURDENS.

It was also stated during these hearings that the cities and towns should contribute through taxation to any deficit in the operation of the system.

This is believed to explain one of the purposes of the trustees in their notice today.

The Legislature was ready to incorporate all these changes into the bill which provided public control of the Elevated, but they hesitated when the suggestion was received that Governor McCall would not sanction these features.

GRANDPA McCALL IS SURE YOUNG SAM IS A 'FAN'



Governor McCall and his eighth and youngest grandchild, Samuel McCall Chappell, photographed today. It was the first snowstorm day for three months' old Sam. The Governor has presented him a World's Series baseball. He is convinced that the baby gives signs of being a real "fan" like Uncle "Hal" McCall.

This was an eventful day for Young Sam Chappell. He saw his first snowstorm and had his first picture taken by the AMERICAN. His full name is Samuel McCall Chappell, and he is the eighth—and youngest—grandchild of the Governor of Massachusetts.

He's a war baby, the little son of Lieutenant and Mrs. Alfred H. Chappell. Mrs. Chappell was formerly Margaret McCall, the Governor's youngest daughter. The baby's father is instructor in the School of Aviation, Columbus, Ohio.

"Young Sam" Grandpa McCall calls the baby. Since his birth, August 31, he has been showered with gifts, but to Young Sam's eyes the prize gift is a World Series baseball, which at the tender age of three months he delights to hold. The Governor, who is a baseball enthusiast, is sure that young Chappell is going to be a ball player like his uncle, "Hal" McCall, who was famous at Harvard as captain of the varsity team.

EX-PREMIER KAROLYI OF HUNGARY SERIOUSLY ILL

By Agence Radio to the International News Service.

Paris, Dec. 6.—Count Karolyi, former premier of Hungary and the first president of the Hungarian National Council, is seriously ill at Budapest, it was learned today.

NORTH PACIFIC COAST SHAKEN BY QUAKE

By International News Service.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 6.—The entire north Pacific coast was shaken by an earthquake early today. The tremors lasted for two minutes and were felt plainest at 12:45 o'clock.

Reports from Vancouver, Victoria, Bellingham and other cities outside of Seattle tell of severe shocks.

Tall buildings trembled, dishes were thrown from shelves and doors slammed by the tremors, which travelled from south to north.

Employees at work in a building in the southern part of this city reported the tremor at 12:44 o'clock.

Apparently the shocks were most severe north of this city, with Vancouver suffering most. Many persons in that city rushed from their beds and others were seized with nausea. A distant rumbling accompanied the shocks in the British Columbia cities.

Patrol Boats Returned

The return of patrol boats converted from private yachts during the war was begun today. The patrol boat formerly the Vernia Asther, belonging to Providence, was ordered returned to its owner today.

THOUSANDS STARVE IN RUSSIA

Terrible Conditions in Petrograd, Where Population Has Dwindled to Half Million

By International News Service.

Copenhagen, Dec. 6.—Horrible conditions in Russia are revealed by the latest arrivals here from Petrograd. Thousands of people have starved to death in the city of Petrograd, where the population has decreased to half a million. Many are insane from hunger.

The announcement of the intention of the allies to take action in Russia caused a panic among the Reds, who are murdering and plundering civilians and burning houses.

The Reds robbed the Polish legation in Petrograd of fifteen million rubles. Members of the Swiss legation fled.

Livonia, Esthonia and Courland have appealed to the civilized world to intervene and oust the plundering Bolshevist forces.

German troops have departed from Reval. The Poles who took Brest-Litovsk have driven the Ukrainians from the territory south of Lemberg.

MACKENSEN ABANDONS ARMY TO HUNGARIANS

Paris, Dec. 6.—The Czecho-Slovak army which is marching toward Vienna has reached Nicolsburg. Further details of the abandonment of his army by General von Mackensen were learned today. He departed for Berlin, leaving the troops under the orders of the Hungarians, who are disarming the Germans.

HUNDREDS OF TREES ON COMMON COMING DOWN

Hundreds of old trees on Boston Common and in the Public Gardens are to be cut down by the Park and Recreation Department because they are interfering with the growth of the younger and healthier trees. Twenty-five trees on Commonwealth avenue, between Dartmouth street and Massachusetts avenue, are also doomed. The wood from the trees will be sold to the poor by the Municipal Office.

LYNN STORE ORDERED TO POST A CONFESSION

For failure to comply with the food regulations, the Lynn branch of the Quaker Grocery Stores was today ordered by the Food Administrator to post a confession in its store windows for thirty days. The store contains about 10,000 pounds of sugar for which application had been made for use in two new stores which it was claimed the firm was opened.

BERLIN IS SCENE OF REVOLT

Serious Disorders in German Capital; Rule of Socialists Menaced

London, Dec. 6.—The Prussian government has withdrawn all immunity privileges protecting the Hohenzollern family, said a Central News dispatch from Berlin this afternoon.

Amsterdam, Dec. 6.—Serious disorders have broken out in Berlin, according to reports from the frontier today. They began on Thursday. There has been much firing on the principal streets of the city with the Bolshevik leading the rioters, it was reported, but no further details have been received.

The new Socialist government at Berlin is apparently more menaced by counter-revolution today than at any other time since it was set up, less than a month ago.

The perils come from two sides:

1—From the monarchists and militarists who are plotting the restoration of the throne.

2—From the German Bolsheviki who want to establish their extremist policies modeled after the principles of the Russian terrorists.

Fatal rioting was reported from numerous towns and cities in Germany today, the worst outbreak apparently taking place at Cologne, where many persons were killed and

Berlin to New York Zeppelins Planned; 100 Passengers

By International News Service.

London, Dec. 6.—Zeppelins capable of making a flight from Berlin to New York are being constructed at Friedrichshaven, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Express.

Plans are being made to attempt the trans-Atlantic flight in July if the international situation permits. The Zeppelin with which the first flight is to be made is equipped with nine engines and eight propellers and is expected to cover the distance from Berlin to New York in forty hours. Arrangements are being made to carry 100 passengers.

FAIL TO REACH HOSPITAL SHIP BY RADIO

By International News Service.

New York, Dec. 6.—Efforts to communicate by wireless with the United States hospital ship Comfort, which is four days overdue here, have been unsuccessful since yesterday afternoon. She has 400 wounded American officers and soldiers on board.

The last word received from the Comfort came yesterday morning when she reported by wireless that she was delayed by stormy weather, but was not in distress.

A berth was reserved for the Comfort today on the north side of Pier No. 4 in Hoboken. It was the south side of the same pier that President Wilson sailed Wednesday for Europe on the George Washington.

Brigadier-General O. H. McManus, commander of the port of embarkation, said there "is no cause for apprehension regarding the comfort."

"All ships have been coming in somewhat late," he added. "We did not expect the Comfort to arrive before today. It is not strange that we have not been able to get the Comfort by wireless, as something may have gone wrong with her wireless apparatus."

The Sierra, carrying thirty-five wounded officers and 1,500 wounded men, which was expected today may not arrive until tomorrow, owing to delay caused by storm weather.

The Cretic, which left Liverpool a day after the Orca, which arrived yesterday, was expected today. It is not known whether she is bringing any soldiers.

15,000 DEATHS BY GRIP IN STATE

Fifteen thousand deaths and 200,000 cases of influenza is the estimate of the ravages committed by that disease in the recent epidemic throughout Massachusetts. These figures were given out today by Dr. John S. Hitchcock, head of the department of communicable diseases of the State Department of Health.

"It is an estimate merely," said Dr. Hitchcock, "and the best that we can do under the circumstances, as the disease was not made reportable until Oct. 14. The exact number of deaths will not be known for several months, as they have to be reported to the Secretary of State and the proper indexing takes some time."

Health authorities stated that about 500 cases daily are still being reported, and urged the public to be careful. At the height of the epidemic as many as 7,000 cases were reported in one day and the average was 4,000 a day. There is still a good deal of influenza, but few cases of pneumonia.

TREATIES OF PAST FULL OF SNARES

By International News Service

Washington, Dec. 6.—Warning the Senate of a possible conflict between the United States and the allies, growing out of the execution of the treaties of peace, Senator James Hamilton Lewis declared on the floor this afternoon that President Wilson's plan for a league of nations were designed to guard against such a catastrophe.

Senator Lewis made ti plain that in voicing this warning he was not speaking for the President, as he has many times in the past.

"For myself—speaking wholly upon my own responsibility and asking that no other be credited with this utterance or charged with its result," said Senator Lewis, "I put before my country this warning—that in the past the great wars of the world have been conducted between those who were previously allies and grew from the execution of the compacts of peace, so-called of thos who were called allies.

Senator Lewis predicted that President Wilson would return to this country before Jan. 15, "bringing with him a treaty creating the league of nations."

"I will not be blind to this prospect even as between ourselves and those we now call allies. It is because of this that I can go no farther, and will not assume that those in whose behalf I speak ever intended to go farther than to provide a method in the hope that when these things arise the consequences may be minimized to where dangers of a war may be avoided and the settlement of the disputes composed upon the basis of the religion for justice of civilized nations and the virtue for humanity of a Christian people."

THE WARNING TO MOSES.

Senator Lewis said that to the President going abroad he would give "the Lord's special command to Moses, 'Observe that which I command thee this day: Behold I drive out before thee the Amorite and the Canaanite, the Hittite and the Jebusite.' Take heed to this, lest thou make a

30,000-Ton "Hush" Ships Added to British Navy

London, Dec. 6 (By British Wireless Press).—Twenty-one new warships, including five "Hush" ships, of 29,000 tons each, have been added to the British navy in the course of the war. This is revealed in an article published in the Times and written by the Times' naval correspondent.

The "Hush" ships, so called because of the secrecy attending their construction, are 800 feet long and are capable of a speed of from thirty to thirty-five knots an hour.

The others include two ships of the Iron Duke class, five of much destruction of property occurred.

Terrific street fighting broke out in Kreuznach, where mobs led by army officers clashed with others led by civilians. Red flags were torn down and burned and the City Hall was destroyed by fire.

The disorders have spread into south Germany and army officers who fought under Rupprecht, the former Crown Prince of Bavaria, are attempting to overthrow the nationalist government at Munich headed by Kurt Eisner.

In northern Prussia the German Bolsheviki are demanding the arrest of Prince Henry, brother of the ex-Kaiser, on the charge that he is conspiring to put Wilhelm back upon the throne.

The extremists are becoming bolder in their movements and Liebknecht, their leader, openly boasted that he would soon be in control of the central government.

A counter-revolution is scheduled to break out in Berlin tonight, according to reports sent out from Zurich.

The growing turbulence and chaos in Germany may lead to peace conference complications. The armistice was signed on November 11 by representatives of the Ebert government now in power at Berlin. If this government is overpowered before the peace conference meets it will mean that a new set of German delegates, representing entirely new principles from those now animating the German central government, must be chosen. If a new government is established, and it seems unstable, the allies may refuse to treat with it.

WALTHAM MAN FINED $50 FOR CARRYING DIRK

PRESIDENT FOR AN ENDURING PEACE

Wilson's First Utterance to Emphasize Permanence of Compact Between Nations

By International News Service.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Secretary Tumulty was back on the job today after having accompanied the President as far as New York and frequent wireless messages were exchanged between the two.

These were entirely of a routine nature, it was understood. Secretary Tumulty today reiterated that he would keep Congress advised of developments that are not carried in press reports coming from the George Washington and later from the other side.

It was learned today that the keynote of President Wilson's first public utterance when he reaches Europe will be that there can be no real peace unless it is negotiated upon permanent principles. He will warn, it was said, against the possibilities of "a second Alsace Lorraine."

In other words, the President will point out, it is believed, that it is imperative in the event any boundary lines are shifted, that it must be with a view to the unquestioned and absolute satisfaction of the population to be affected, if the future peace of Europe is not to be again upset.

Paris, Dec. 6. — The inter-allied peace preliminaries will begin December 17, and the initial peace conference proper, with German delegates in attendance, will begin on January 15, said Marcel Hutin, writing in the Echo de Paris today. He predicts that the conference will not end until May.

DIVORCED, THEN SUED FOR HOSPITAL BILL

A few minutes after he had been granted a divorce from Mrs. Lavinia Batey of Newton Upper Falls, on a charge of desertion, Robert W. Batey of Dexter, Me., was arrested by Deputy Sheriff William Wragg, for failure to pay a bill of $128.69 contracted with the Needham Hospital during Mrs. Batey's illness five years ago. At that time the couple were living on Greendale avenue in Needham. Batey must furnish bail or go to jail until the bill is paid.

STONEHAM SUES GRAY, EX-TREASURER, FOR $20,000

W. Padilla Gray, otherwise known as Wesley P. Gray, former treasurer and tax collector of Stoneham, has been sued by the town for $20,000. The suit was filed today at the Superior Court, East Cambridge, by the town counsel, H. H. Richardson. Gray is charged with diverting to his own use $18,500 of the town's funds between January 1, 1914, and October 21, 1918. He is under indictment by Middlesex County in the sum of $8,000 and is at present out on $12,000 bail.

ternational navies. "As to the question of enforcing these judgments by army and navy, let it now be announced that no judgment that is to be enforced by army or navy will ever be enforced," he asserted. "Whenever armies are to be called in and war is to follow, this is an announcement that the tribunal has failed and the purpose of it has fallen."

POWER OF PUBLIC OPINION.

Public opinion must be the great sustaining force of the international tribunal of the future, Senator Lewis said. If a decree so transparently unjust that it ought not to be enforced, should be rendered, he believed no country would allow its forces to attempt to enforce it.

"Public opinion would not tolerate such," he said. "If it is a judgment that ought to be enforced, it is the public opinion of the day enlightened by experiences from late events, which will give it its force and enforcement."

It was public opinion, and not armies and navies that won the war over Germany, Lewis declared. He said his fears were prompted by confidence that the league would succeed and not that it would fail.

CITES CASE OF JAPAN.

Senator Lewis foresaw the possibility that Japan would prevail upon Great Britain and France to demand that the United States remove its bar against Asiatics, as a reward for its service in the war.

"If these European allies decline, they become the victims of Japan's natural discrimination in trade and her opposition to these nations longer holding spheres in Asiatic lands," he said. "If they consent they will exact of Japan and her associates to command of us the taking down of the bars of obstruction to Europe in South and Central America—called the Monroe doctrine.

"From all these our tomorrows are filled with peril and our todays with a warning."

CHARGE 'BRIBE' OF U. S. NAVAL INSPECTOR

Boston Electrical Contractor Arrested; Claimed He Tried to Influence Contract Decision

Edward J. Klous, Boston[2] and Brookline electrical contractor, was arrested today on a charge of having given $672.45, in five payments, to Chief Yeoman Albert E. Warburton, U. S. Naval Reserve, to influence Warburton's decision, as a government inspector, in regard to payments on government contracts.

Klous pleaded not guilty to Federal Commissioner Hayes. He was held in $1,000 bail for a continued hearing on next Friday. He furnished bail in form of a certified check.

Klous' address is given as No. 32 Russell street, Brookline. He conducts the E. J. Klous Electrical Company at No. 48 Summer street in Boston. He was arrested at his office by Deputy United States Marshal Arthur J. Shinners, who took him directly to the Federal building.

FIVE PAYMENTS ALLEGED.

The specific charge is that Klous promised and gave money on five different occasions to Chief Yeoman Warburton—the latter being a member of the United States naval cost inspection force for the government at the Blake & Knowles pump works in Cambridge.

Klous is said to have held a government sub-contract, running to about $100,000, for motors and generators for torpedo boat destroyers. Presumably the motors and generators were being made or assembled for Klous at the pump works and that the inspection took place there.

The five payments are alleged to have been made last May, June and July. The warrant specifies the following dates and amounts:

May 9—$100.
May 16—$100.
June 1—$72.45.
June 27—$100.
July 1—$300.

The warrant charges that Klous did "promise, offer and give" these amounts to Warburton, with intent to influence Warburton's decision in the matter of payment of money in relation to government contracts.

CLAIMS CONSENT TO MEET FRIEND'S WIFE PRODUCES LETTER IN LOVE SUIT

Sensational Revelation in Trial of $25,000 Action Against Brighton Man

That Albert J. McMurtry received written permission to continue his friendship with Mrs. Frances Gruber, and that this letter was written by her husband, Harris Gruber, was brought out early today in the $25,000 alienation suit that Gruber is bringing against the Brighton contractor and that is being heard by Judge Keating and a jury in the Superior Court.

The letter, as read in court today follows:

August 7, 1915.

"To Mr. Albert J. McMurtry:

"I hereby comply with Frances Gruber's desire that your acquaintance with her shall continue as ever before, and to that effect I do faithfully promise not to take action of any kind to prevent it. (Signed)

"HARRIS GRUBER."

This letter, according to testimony, was written in the Parker House. McMurtry stated that he met Mr. and Mrs. Gruber at that hotel, that Mrs. Gruber was sitting in a chair in the ladies' parlor and that Gruber went over and talked to her. He then went to the desk and wrote this letter, which he handed to Mrs. Gruber. Mrs. Gruber in turn gave the letter to McMurtry. The latter stated that he read it, folded it and put it in his pocket, without making any remark.

A. C. Lurie, counsel for McMurtry, questioned him sharply as to his interpretation of the letter.

Q.—Did you understand that that letter gave you Gruber's permission to meet Mrs. Gruber? A.—Yes, I understood it that way.

Q.—When did this occur to you? A.—When I read the letter at the Parker House.

Q.—When Mr. Gruber brought suit, you had an emphatic notice that he objected to your meeting with Mrs. Gruber? A.—I knew it was a kind of double header. He had one punch at me and wanted to get another.

Q.—What did you think the suit was for? A.—To get money.

Q.—Upon what basis did Mr. Gruber make a claim to get money? A.—No basis, Hackmail.

Q.—Didn't you pay Mr. Gruber $2,500 with the understanding that he consented to your meeting Mrs. Gruber? A.—I didn't pay it. Others did.

Q.—Didn't Gruber tell you that he objected to your meeting Mrs. Gruber? A.—No. He was glad to have me.

Q.—And when you thought Gruber was engaged in a scheme to pull you in, you continued by appointment and otherwise to meet Mrs. Gruber? A.—Yes, Mrs. Gruber was not responsible for his actions.

QUERY MRS. VERNON CASTLE ON DEATH OF ACTRESS

Mrs. Vernon Castle, famous dancer and film star, who has been interrogated for information regarding the death of Miss "Billie" Carlton, popular young actress, found dead in bed after "Victory Ball."

London, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Vernon Castle, famous dancer and film actress, has been interrogated for information by the authorities in connection with the death here of Miss Billie Carlton, the popular young actress, who was found dead in her bed at the Hotel Savoy after a gay night marked by a "Victory ball."

A coroner's inquest into Miss Carlton's death revealed that she had visited Mrs. Castle's room just before retiring for the night. Physicians testified that the young actress died from an overdose of cocaine and other narcotics.

ALL 19 AMENDMENTS ARE ADOPTED

All the nineteen amendments submitted by the Constitutional Convention were adopted by the people at the November election, according to unofficial statements at the Executive Council today.

The tabulation of the amendments and the votes on United States Senator and all State offices is practically completed and the official announcement will be made by the council next Wednesday.

The Initiative and Referendum heads the list of amendments adopted. The amendments for biennial elections, public development of natural resources and for a State budget system were notable in the list.

The Constitutional Convention thus achieved the distinction of having its entire work approved by the people. Three amendments submitted last yearw ere also ratified—anti-aid, absentee-voting and the right of cities and towns to deal in the necessaries of life in times of emergency.

UNABLE TO SERVE CABLE COMPLAINT ON BURLESON

New York, Dec. 6.—A legal deadlock exists today in the controversy between the Commercial Cable Company and Postmaster-General Burleson, in which the company seeks a temporary injunction against the seizure of its cables and to prevent the consolidation of its cables with those of the Western Union Telegraph Company. It grows out of the alleged inability of United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy to serve the complaint in the suit in equity upon Mr. Burleson.

35 COCKTAILS AT WARNER PARTY

New York, Dec. 6.—"If you will get on the water wagon and cut out Holbrook, we may yet be happy," wrote Charles Blaine Warner to his wife, whom he is suing for divorce at Mineola, L. I.

The letter was read in court while Mrs. Louise C. Warner was on the stand yesterday in her own defense. It was written from a sanitarium in Connecticut three days after Warner's father, Charles M., president of the Warner Sugar Refining Company, had surprised his daughter-in-law and the correspondent, Harry F. Holbrook, at the Goshen Inn.

There were frequent allusions to John Barleycorn in the course of Mrs. Warner's testimony.

A birthday party, at which thirty-five cocktails, nine cognacs, four quarts of claret and eleven packs of cigarettes had been used up by fourteen guests, figured in the disclosures.

It took place in the Hotel Beau Sejour, Central Park, L. I. Mrs. Warner was the hostess and Holbrook was one of the merrymakers. The bill was $120.

The birthday anniversary was that of Mrs. Helen Markwell, a registered nurse employed as "companion" by Mrs. Warner. Incidentally, Mrs. Markwell took the stand and swore she had always slept in Mrs. Warner's room on the occasions when Holbrook was an overnight guest at her Great Neck house. Holbrook, she said, occupied the "white room," separated by a bathroom, from that of his hostess, and invariably had another male guest with him.

Caught napping by the country going "dry," Mrs. Warner said she bought $816.84 worth of assorted liquors, which she stored in the cellar at Great Neck.

"I will be glad to have it when prohibition goes into effect," she wrote in her husband. "My conscience is clean. I have done no wrong. Mr. Holbrook has never been otherwise than a gentleman to me. Our names have been linked together by malicious tongues, and you listen to lies, frame-up and gossip. In the face of that I am helpless."

In a dark gray tailored suit with a white lace collar, Mrs. Warner bore herself with composure in the witness chair. She denied having said, "Oh, I—I'm always getting those messages," when her husband suddenly ill, sent word for her to return to town.

She said she had not called up Holbrook very often at his business place or the New York Athletic Club. And when confronted with telephone slips showing 151 such conversations for the month of August alone, she declared she really could not remember why she had called him up. She disclaimed ownership of a suit of combinations seen by a witness in Holbrook's room.

"You did not want to worry your husband, and you told him you would cut out Holbrook?" queried Isaac Oeland, Warner's counsel.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Then why did you go to the Goshen Inn with Holbrook and register under an assumed name?"

Mrs. Warner lost her composure and had not France a direct answer up to the time court adjourned.

WHY GEN. COLE WAS RELIEVED OF COMMAND

Why Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole "lost his job" was explained to an AMERICAN reporter by a former member of General Cole's command, who returned with a group of overseas men and is now in a convalescent camp.

General Cole was "relieved" of his command because he was so fond of his men that he objected to sacrificing their lives needlessly. He protested against wasting them in minor engagements; and by his protest earned the displeasure of military powers in France.

"Charlie Cole is a kind-hearted man, and knew that we men were willing to do anything to win the war," said the AMERICAN'S informant. "I'd like to come out in the open and tell all I know, but I am still in the service and must curb my tongue.

"It was nothing but work from the time we landed in France. We were billeted in one of Napoleon's old barracks, which resembled a stable. When we got the order to go to the front we obeyed. The officers received their orders and conveyed them to us.

"The trouble started last August. Some new officers took hold and began driving us to the limit.

"The matter reached the attention of Charlie Cole and he PRt that we had a just complaint.

"Now, mark me, I do not mean to say that we were cravens. On the contrary, we were as brave as men could be. We took position after position. We drove the Germans out of trenches with grenade bombs.

"At that time we did not have many American soldiers to support our rear. We were exhausted after these engagements, in which we lost many of our best men. General Cole felt we were entitled to a rest. He was not backward in telling others so."

STUDENTS, ILL, CARED FOR BY THE ARMY

While the date to complete the demobolization of Students' Army Training Corps is fixed at December 21, this ruling does not apply to any student or students who are ill. If ill at that date they will be sent to some post to recuperate. "Students will not be sent back into civilian life except in good health," said Major Michael J. Moore, acting adjutant general of the Northeastern Department, No. 99 Chauncy street.

POLICE 'DON'TS' FOR HOLIDAY SHOPPERS

Following numerous thefts reported by Christmas shoppers to the police, Superintendent Michael H. Crowley has set out a list of "don'ts" for the guidance of those who will be compelled to mix in the large crowds in the shopping district this season.

He asks the cooperation of business men and the public in general and says that if each person remembers his or her money and guards it at all times, it will do better work than a whole police force.

Following is the list of don'ts:

Don't carry your bag on your arm in a loose manner; it should be held by the top with the hand over the clasp.

"Don't leave your bag open on counters in the stores.

"Don't carry your bag carelessly while boarding cars; hold it tightly; thieves frequent railways and railway stations.

"Don't carry a large roll of bills; try to have as near the exact amount with you that you intend to spend.

"Remember that pickpockets and sneak thieves seldom work alone; that they travel in gangs of frum two to five persons, one particular member of the gang being exceptionally skilful in removing money from pockets or bags and also removing stickpins. Other members of the gang, either by pushing or causing some excitement, divert attention from the pickpocket, who has already picked out his victim and takes your money before you realize it is gone.

"Remember if your arms are full of parcels before starting for home to put your money in a safe place.

"Remember that you are an easy victim for a pickpocket if you hold two straps while riding in a crowded car.

"Don't display a large roll while shopping or at a theatre. For men the safest place to carry money is in an inside vest pocket; for the women, any place which they know to be secure from the hands of thieves."

The superintendent also asks all business men and owners of autos, trucks and teams to make sure that their vehiles are watched at all times so that the parcels shall not be stolen as the express thieves are especially active.

He also asks that no bundles be left outside places of business without proper watch being placed upon them.

JOFFRE SHATTERED GERMAN HOPE OF VICTORY, SAYS HARDEN

Chance of Winning War Gone After They Were Turned Back from Paris in 1914.

Amsterdam, Dec. 6.—"Majesty, the war is lost!"

Helmuth Von Moltke, then chief of the general staff of the German army, made this declaration to the Kaiser in September, 1914, just after the turning point in the first battle of the Marne, when the German legions were stopped short by Joffre at the gates of Paris and had begun their great retreat.

Maximilian Harden, the famous editor of Die Zukunft, made this revelation in a sensational speech at Hamburg on October 27 last, on the eve of the German upheaval.

"Bernstorff told me," said Herr Harden, in the course of his speech, "that to the very last moment of his stay in Washington he had lied and lied and lied to President Wilson—without knowing that he was lying. The Foreign Office told Bernstorff to say one thing and then proceeded to do the other."

Only brief excerpts of Harden's speech were permitted to get out of Germany at the time, and the full text of what he said is only now available from German newspapers reaching here.

In opening his address, Harden expressed the hope that the dying days of the year would bring an armistice and peace.

GERMAN HOPES SHATTERED.

"But an imperative pre-condition for either," he continued, "is that we make ourselves free from traditions and preconceived ideas, that we look into the future with clear eyes and keen judgment, and that we mercilessly draw the line between that which was and that which is.

"Many hopes have been shattered and buried. Events have hammered the realization into all brains that it is impossible to vanquish three or four-fifths of the world's inhabitants.

"It was a mistake which was bound to bear bitter vengeance, to measure this war by the standards of former wars, and it will be a new grave mistake to base upon those standards false conceptions of honor in connection with the possible outcome.

"Once, perhaps, there was a period in this war when victory, in the ancient sense, slipped past us by a hair's breadth: in September, 1914.

SAW DEFEAT CLEARLY.

"But the Marne retreat, which wrecked the plan of overrunning France, gave a different turn to the war. The clear thinking, and clear-seeing Moltke at that time—in September, 1914—went to the Kaiser and said:

"'Majesty, the war is lost!'"

In reporting this juncture of the speech, the Hamburg papers describe the great audience as being seized by a tremendous emotion. There were wild cries of "Hear, hear!" and for several minutes there was such restlessness and noise that the speaker had to wait.

Harden's accurate sources of information always have been his chief asset. There have been times when he proved in court sensational revelations of another nature, and there was not one in that Hamburg audience who doubted his words.

However, when he quoted Moltke's words, the realization that they had been deceived in an unbelievable systematic manner for four years seemed to break upon his hearers with crushing force.

TRIUMPH ESCAPED GERMANS.

When calm was restored, Harden continued:

"Triumph had escaped us then and there—at the Marne, in September, 1914. But even if triumph had been ours it would have left us friendless and joyless in the world.

"But it was then that the first opportunity to make a good peace was missed, for the reason that those in control of this gigantic undertaking looked upon it always through military, never through political eyes; because they ignored Bismarck's most important and sincerest aim: To secure the superiority of political thinking over military logic.

"There was a second opportunity for liquidation of the war, and it, too, was allowed to pass by. That was in the middle of 1916, when military factors had been successfully brought into play by us without bringing us to the ultimate goal.

"It was then that the work of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz began to take the centre of the stage. The controversy about U-boat warfare set in.

"His aides and abettors were Herr Zimmermann, Secretary of State, otherwise without ill repute, and Helfferich—God only knows how such men came to such offices.

"I hope and wish that these three men will be brought to trial before a high tribunal.

"Characteristic of the whole conduct of the war was I am in a position to prove—the 'mathematical' activity of a certain statistician who, in a personal report to the Kaiser, 'demonstrated' that England was absolutely bound to sue for peace within a very short time thereafter. And this gentleman concluded his sanguine statements with the remark:

"'And, please God, your majesty will then reject England's petition for peace!'

DROVE AMERICA INTO WAR.

"Instead of striving for an understanding with America, situated as we were in a strong military defensive position, we drove that hemisphere into hostility against us. The leading politicians were helpless in the face of this whole world catastrophe, as may be seen from a short dialogue that took place at the moment of the declaration of war. At Prince Von Buelow's astonished glance, prompted by Bethmann-Hollweg's decision for war, Bethmann exclaimed:

"'Why, Excellency, it will be a violent storm, but it will be short!'

"In such spirit, with such errors, the war was entered upon and carried on from stage to stage. There was a third opportunity for peace. It was when Russia collapsed from within. The road to peace was deliberately blocked by the inherently unnatural and untrue 'peace treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest.'

"Thus came the crisis of last September. Army headquarters suddenly conveyed the wish for a sort of government with which the enemies would negotiate and and which would quickly bring about an armistice.

"Late, but at last, Ludendorff had gauged the situation correctly.

ALLIES FALL AWAY.

"I can still see the surprised and broken members of the Reichstag. Bulgaria has deserted us. Only a short time ago she received 250,000 new uniforms and equipment pieces from us. Turkey is in a status of separate peace—despite the fifty millions in gold which Talaat extricated from Berlin in the eleventh hour.

"Bernstorff is homeward bound because he does not wish to witness the entry of the British in Constantinople. The Dardanelles already are officially closed.

"It is in connection with our isolation that we have to consider the exchange with President Wilson. A gigantic world-arbiter's task has been placed in his hands, and strong influences are counteracting it—influences which we should not aid and abet by insinuations against the President."

JUSTIFIES ALLIES' DEMANDS.

Harden then justified the Allied and American demands for proper guarantees prior to the granting of an armistice. Apart from other reasons, he said, such a demand by President Wilson may be explained psychologically, "for he has had had experiences with former German governments."

"The old system has worn itself to death," continued Harden, "the spirit of the 'might-theory' must vanish.

"As for the Kaiser—a pilot who is not on deck in the hour of danger makes himself dispensable."

Thunderous shouts of "Bravo" followed Harden's subsequent statement:

"By the grace of God,' and 'By Divine Right' these things are of the past. It is now: 'By the people's will.'

"The idea has triumphed, and the socialization of mankind begins. In the new world order the inherent strength of the capable German people will gain a loftier and nobler place, and, looking at it from this viewpoint, the war is not lost for us, the sacrifices have not been in vain."

FORD TO DEMAND LEGISLATIVE COAL INQUIRY

Determined to Get Fuel Facts, Councillor Plans Fight to Finish

"Before this week is out, a petition will be filed with the Legislature, by me, to investigate the coal situation in the city of Boston through legislative channels."

This statement was made by Councillor Francis J. W. Ford, who has been endeavoring for some time to obtain facts and figures from J. J. Storrow, the fuel administrator of New England, regarding the amount of coal received by dealers and other facts appertaining to the coal situation.

"The existence," added Mr. Ford, "of the small dealer is at the mercy of the coal combination, because the latter controls the output here, and consequently the price. Just as much as the combination on the other end controls the amount of coal mined. If the big dealers in Boston see fit to squelch the small dealer, that is those whom they do not already control, they can do so.

LOOPHOLE FOR DEALERS.

"And Mr. Storrow's suggestion that any dealer can lower the price if he sees fit leaves a loophole for the big dealer to crawl out of knowing that the small dealer cannot do business as cheaply as the large dealer. This gives the combination a hold, to hold upon the small dealer, and puts him out of business because of price; in other words, the coal combination controls both the output and the price, to the detriment of the small dealer and the people at large."

Councillor Ford has been active for some time on the coal situation and the letter of Mr. Storrow sent to President Collins of the City Council, refusing to give any data or facts on certain questions asked by the Council, brought matters to a head.

"Let me ask, in all sincerity," said Mr. Ford, "if there is nothing behind it, why conceal the facts which are asked for? Why should not these facts be known. There are no great business secrets involved, there is nothing apparently which should disturb the public to any great degree, unless it might be just those things that we are seeking.

ASKS FOR FIGURES.

"Consequently then, why not out with the facts and figures. There is little doubt in anyone's mind who has followed this question but that there is a combination which is working to the detriment of the small dealer and to the public. I feel that enough proofs and facts can be brought before the Legislature that will enable the Attorney-General to start an investigation, and I intend to see that it is done."

Councillor Ford sought to obtain through the City Council particulars as to the distribution, amount and certain other facts concerning the dealers of Boston through Mr. Storrow. The latter stated that he was a Federal agent and not responsible to any city board, and refused to give out some of the information desired. Councillor Ford, balked through this channel, seeks the desired knowledge through legislative channels and intends following the question through to a finish.

9—The Milkman.

A simple life the milkman leads. He quits his downy couch
At two a. m. or thereabouts. How's that to start a grouch?
He drives along the lonely roads without a soul in sight
Except perhaps, a hold-up man who's spoiling for a fight.

His route is like a Marathon. It's long and hard and tough.
Unless he takes it on the jump there's never time enough.
His problem is to run upstairs and leave a jar of cream
And keep his footsteps muffled as the tenants drowse and dream.

Some careless housewife puts a box of rubbish on the stairs.
The milkman finds it in the dark, entirely unawares,
And, as he rolls quite rapidly down six or seven flights,
He's blamed for having no regard for other person's rights.

The milkman loves the snow, of course, but when it comes to sleet—
Oh, Boy! that's where the milkman lives—He skids along the street.
He slips. He staggers. Down he goes. The sidewalk meets his head.
Amidst the milk and broken glass he wishes he were dead.

Ellis Says Dorchester Coal Situation Was Never Better Than Now

That Raymond P. Delano was somewhat belated in his charges against Committee A of the Boston Fuel Administration and that he was interested in Dorchester's end of the coal situation only, and that the coal situation in Dorchester was never in better condition than at the present time as far as a comparative basis could be drawn with other sections of Boston, was the substance of a statement given to the AMERICAN by David A. Ellis, chairman of the Boston Fuel Administration.

"Mr. Delano is about three months behind the times," said Mr. Ellis. "Conditions in the Dorchester section have been improving right along and the report sheets for November will show Dorchester to be on a par with other sections of Boston."

Mr. Ellis admitted that the Boston Fuel Administration had met with difficulties in its endeavors to meet the issue of equalizing the distribution of coal among the dealers.

"Mr. Storrow has made repeated trips to Philadelphia to confer with the Anthracite Committee having to do with the allotment of coal to the different sections, and he has pleaded with this committee to give New England a fair show," said Mr. Ellis.

Asked as to the charge of discrimination against small dealers, Mr. Ellis stated that in many instances the small dealers had received their full quota for the reason that they were alive to the situation and were on hand early with their demands for coal.

He stated emphatically that the Fuel Administration had no jurisdiction over the direct shipment of coal from the mines to dealers. If there had been any discrimination among dealers it had occurred at the mine operator's end of the business.

COAL FACTS ARE DEMANDED BY DORCHESTER

Charge Renewed That Fuel Board Is Helping Big Dealers Toward Monopoly

Five specific recommendations made by Raymond P. Delano before the members of the Dorchester Board of Trade at its meeting in the rooms of the Dorchester Trust Company last night referring to the coal situation were adopted. They were substantially as follows:

1—That Mr. Storrow answer the organization's letter of October 23.

2—That Mr. Storrow furnish the Dorchester Board of Trade with information as to coal delivered to Boston and Dorchester dealers, with figures showing deliveries in 1916.

3—That Mr. Storrow preserve all records, documents and memoranda relating to the anthracite, bituminous and wood departments of the Boston Fuel Commission, and Committee A and B of last year.

4—That an investigation be made of the management and methods of the distribution of coal by Committee A.

5—That the Dorchester Board of Trade ask all the coal dealers if they object to the publication of the information.

Mr. Delano charged that there are many coal dealers in Dorchester who have not a pound of coal in their yards and cannot supply their trade, and that Committee A asked the small dealers to turn over their two-third orders to a large Boston coal company for 25 cents a ton for the business.

Mr. Delano also charged that the big dealers were trying to force the smaller ones out of business and that the Fuel Commission was turning its orders over to the larger companies.

MAYOR OFF TO CAPITAL FOR RAIL IMPROVEMENTS

Mayor Peters will go to Washington tonight and lay before the Director of Railroads an urgent plan to allow the roads entering Boston to include in their budgets or the coming year sufficient sums to warrant the improvement of terminals. This is in line with his efforts to get ships and shipping for Boston. Yesterday he appointed a committee consisting of former Mayor Josiah Quincy, Howard Cowdy, Henry L. Harriman, Frederick H. Fay, James J. Phelan and A. C. Ratshesky to further the movement.

THREW DOZEN EGGS AT WIFE, DIVORCE FOR HER

Despite the high cost of living, Harry B. Smith of Brookline, who was divorced by his wife, Mrs. Martha E. Smith of Brookline, in the Superior Court at Dedham, picked up a dozen of eggs and hurled them at his wife according to testimony. Miss Margaret Kerr of Beverly, a sister of Mrs. Smith, testified that while she was living in the Smith's home in Brookline, she saw Mr. Smith throw a dozen of eggs at his wife because she served supper in the kitchen rather than in the dining room.

ARREST POLICEMAN ON CHARGE OF HOLDUP

New York, Dec. 6.—Policeman Robert F. MacDonald is being held under $20,000 bail on a charge of holding up and robbing Isadore Cohn of $315. Both Cohn and Max Stein, who was with him at the time of the robbery, handed over his money at the point of a revolver. The policeman's badge was stripped off his coat in the courtroom.

WRITES HOME AFTER DEATH IS REPORTED

Dorchester Soldier "Killed in Battle" Oct. 14, Sends Letter to Mother Oct. 27

According to a telegram from the War Department, and the casualty lists, Private Francis A. McGuire of Dorchester was killed in action on October 14. According to letters received by his mother, family and employers dated subsequent to that time, he is very much alive.

Private McGuire is a member of Company E, 69th Infantry, and is now, according to his recent letters, in ward 18 of Base Hospital No. 42, where he is recovering from severe mustard gas burns. He lost his sight and voice completely for several days, but wrote that he had recovered both and was doing well.

He is the son of Mrs. Catherine McGuire of No. 11 Inwood street, who received letters dated October 27 and November 3. A letter dated November 4 has just been received by his employers at the Kitsler Leather Company, South Boston. Besides the letters, the family has received also Private McGuire's Christmas package label. His mother and sister believe that the apparent mistake of the military authorities was due to absence of identification following severe fighting early in October. According to young Maguire, he got into the thick of machine gun action and lost all his personal property on the battlefield and nearly all his clothes were shot off. It is believed that his identification tag was lost in the fray.

A telegram has been sent overseas by the Soldiers and Sailors' Relief Society of Dorchester to inquire into the death report.

EAST MANSFIELD AUTO INN CASE CONTINUED

Attleboro, Dec. 6—The cases against George F. Rivers, alleged proprietor of the Auto Inn at East Mansfield, who is charged with keeping a disorderly house, and Charles W. Wentworth of Boston, charged with enticing Gertrude Haggerty of Myrtle street, Boston, to the roadhouse, were today continued until tomorrow. The charges are the result of a raid on the Auto Inn where Anna May William of Worcester street, Boston, and the Haggerty girl were arrested. Both girls are charged with disorderly conduct.

FOCH TO LEAD ALLIED ARMY INTO BERLIN

Plans in Store for Foch Include Spectacular Entry into Berlin

By E. G. FITZHAMON.
Special Cable Dispatch.

London, Dec. 6.—"The sacrifices to which France has consented have been colossal. The dead are innumerable. We owe it to them, and to our living, that our losses are not made in vain, that they are paid for by proper reparation."

Marshal Foch's voice vibrated ever so slightly, and over his face, ordinarily so inscrutable, spread for just a brief spell the shadow of a deep emotion as he spoke these words.

In well-informed quarters it is said a tremendous triumph is in store for Foch. In person he is to lead the Allied forces in a spectacular entry into Berlin when the time comes, if plans, said to be under discussion, materialize.

Ferdinand Foch rarely betrays his feelings by voice or face. The undaunted, unemotional expression of his eyes would lead any westerner of the old days to pick him as just the man to arrest an armed desperado without turning a hair. He looks implacable, though he has nothing of the brow-beating Hindenburg type about him.

CALM, STEADY GAZE.

It has been my good fortune to look him in the eye for some minutes. His calm, steady gaze makes one think instantly of "they shall not pass."

He has the long, thin nose and the thoughtful, patient eyes of a great schemer. Cut off the military moustache and change his brilliant military cap to an American fedora, and Foch would be a "ringer" for a John D. Rockefeller of twenty years ago, except that he has a stronger lower jaw, and bears himself like a marshal of France.

Asked to tell about the war's dramatic ending, he said incisively:

"Our offensive was growing more and more extended and was going to be augmented in force when we were stopped by the enemy's demand for an armistice.

"We imposed the conditions and the enemy accepted them. Otherwise we would not have signed the armistice.

"At the finish we were winning victories along a battle front of 250 miles on which fought gallantly Americans, British, Belgians and French.

LAUDS U. S. TROOPS.

"Had we been allowed to continue, the enemy's situation would from day to day rapidly become worse. But there was a time last Summer when it became vital to assure the communications indispensable to the life of France. They were the communications with the north, via Amiens, which had become very precarious.

"The attack from July 18 to August 8, by the British army under Gen. Sir H. S. Rawlinson, and the French army under Gen. Debeney, was to free Amiens at any price. That was accomplished.

"Meanwhile, the Americans and French had been equally successful in freeing Chateau-Thierry and in re-establishing the communications between Paris and Nancy.

"The sacrifices to which France has consented have been colossal. The dead are innumerable. We owe it to them and to our living that our losses are not made in vain, that they are paid for by proper reparation."

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

Cleanse the little liver and bowels and they get well quickly.

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or a feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs," to evacuate the bowels, no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

REVENUE BILL REPORTED IN SENATE

By International News Service.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Facing a stormy course through the Senate, and with its passage before the end of the present session in doubt, the 1919-20 revenue bill was reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee today.

The bill bears little semblance to the form in which it passed the House. The necessity for converting it from a war revenue bill to a reconstruction tax bill, due to the signing of the armistice while it was in preparation by the Finance Committee, dictated many sweeping changes in the measures.

As reported to the Senate today the bill fixes taxes not only for the fiscal year 1919, but also for the following year. In its present form it will raise $6,000,000,000 in 1919 and $4,000,000,000 in 1920. As it passed the House the bill dealt only with the fiscal year 1919 and was designed to raise the record-breaking sum of $8,000,000,000 in taxes.

DEFEND TWO-YEAR PLAN.

The prospect of delay, even beyond the present session of Congress, grows out of the action of Democratic members of finance committee in jamming into the bill over the protest of Republicans provisions fixing taxes for 1920 which were recommended by Secretary McAdoo.

The Democrats defend their action on the ground that the present Congress will make appropriations for the fiscal year 1920, and should therefore make provisions for meeting these appropriations. The further argument is advanced that American business has a right to know in advance the taxes it will be expected to pay.

TAX ON CHILD LABOR.

Two alterations in the bill as it passed the House to make it clearly constitutional were made by the Senate Finance Committee. The first was to eliminate the taxes on the salaries of Federal judges and other Federal officials, including the President. The second was an ingenious combination of the war and excess profits taxes under the head of "war excess profits taxes," thereby eliminating the objections to a dual system of taxation, but accomplishing the same purpose.

Perhaps the most important amendment made to the bill was the addition of a section taxing employers of child labor. This tax has the approval of President Wilson and is destined to remain in the bill.

Dr. Bowen of Adams Dead

North Adams, Dec. 6.—Dr. David Bowen, prominent among New England Masons, died today at his home in Adams, aged eighty. He originated the Mt. Moriah degree of Masonry and was a member of several lodges. He was for many years identified with the Blackington Woolen Mills of this city.

ESSAY THAT WON A GOLD MEDAL FOR COOLIDGE

Twenty-three years ago, in 1895, the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, desiring to inculcate patriotism and love of country, offered a Gold Medal for the best essay on "The Principles of the American Revolution."

The competition was open to senior classmen in all the colleges of the United States.

Several thousand essays were entered. On Christmas Day the name of the winner was announced.

He was Calvin Coolidge of Amherst College, then twenty-two years old. Massachusetts has now come to know him since as a Representative in the Legislature, Mayor of Northampton, President of the Senate and Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth. In November he was elected Governor. Early next month he will take the oath of the highest office within the gift of his fellow citizens.

The ADVERTISER-AMERICAN, on Sunday, will have the honor of publishing Mr. Coolidge's Gold Medal Essay for the first time. For a young man of twenty-two it was a remarkable production. We urge it upon the attention of every grammar-school, high school and college student in New England.

FREE PERFORMANCE FOR ALL MEN IN UNIFORM

Through activities of the Stage Women's War Relief local branch and the kind offices of the Association of Theatre Managers of Boston there has been arranged a free show for men in uniform to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Boston Theatre, beginning at 2:30. Every person appearing or connected with the show has volunteered their services. The program includes Christie McDonald in songs; Paul Nicholson in a monologue; Tavie Belgie, the prima donna of "Fiddlers Three;" Mehlinger & Meyer, songs and comedy; Milano Five, singers and instrumentalists; Lucile & Cockie, a wonderful bird act; Claudia Coleman and others.

DONOGHUE GETS TOP PLACE ON BALLOT

John A. Donoghue, only labor candidate for City Council, heads the ballot, according to the usual lottery for position held today by the election commissioners at City Hall. The other names in order are: Alfred E. Wellington, John J. Cassidy, Frank A. Goodwin, Albert Hurwitz, Walter L. Collins and Edward F. McLaughlin. The names of candidates for school committee, also drawn today, will be placed on the ballot in the following order: Mary E. Mealey, former president of the Telephone Girls' Union; Frances G. Curtis, the present incumbent.

State Leads Way in Reinstating Soldiers

Cornelius F. Dinan of Cambridge, recently a sergeant in the National Army, is the first State House employe to resume his former position following his discharge from the service.

Dinan returned to the State House today, and Governor McCall immediately signed a warrant authorizing his restoration to his old job as special State House guard.

The State House has adopted the policy of reinstating all who left to enter the service.

'SCOTTY'S' NAME ON ROLL OF HEROES

"Died with honor in the service of his country."

Thus reads a Certificate of Honor awarded in recognition of "Scotty."

"Scotty," the Brookline boy became literally a boy. For he was only sixteen years old, despite his five feet six inches, his manly courage and his superior marksmanship.

The Certificate of Honor has come from the adjutant-general's office at Washington to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart C. Scott of No. 213 Freeman street, Brookline, parents of the late Private Albert E. Scott of Company H, 101st Infantry.

"Scotty" typified the heroic spirit of the 101st Infantry and of the "Twenty-sixth, or "Yankee" Division. He was an expert with his machine gun or "Sho-Sho" gun. On the morning of July 21, when the Germans on the Marne were menacing Paris, "Scotty" was stationed to hold a path. His lieutenant told him: "See that path, Scotty? Don't let anything cross it alive."

"Scotty" shot down one German after another. Suddenly a whole column of men appeared. The leader cried: "Don't shoot. We're Americans." For a moment "Scotty" ceased firing. From behind a tree a German sniper shot him dead. The German trick won. But, when "Scotty's" comrades found his body they also found thirty Germans dead in that pathway. "Scotty" was the youngest in the American Expeditionary Force. But his life cost the enemy dearly.

CITY IN STORM GRIP; GALES ON THE WAY

While Boston struggled with a driving snow storm today, warnings of northeast blows, of gale velocity, promised to add to the difficulties of street and steam railways.

Late trains and trolley cars on all lines reported a serious shortage of men and a consequent slowing down of service on all sides. Every man or woman coming late to business today had a perfectly legitimate excuse in "Train late" or "Car delayed."

While the Boston Elevated made valiant efforts to cope with the storm, it early proclaimed itself vanquished and was obliged to take men from other work to man the snowplows and the sweepers. The Elevated acknowledged an actual shortage of 610 men.

"No school" signals in many of the neighboring towns and the outskirts of the city were sounded early.

Concord and Lexington reported a fall of seven inches of snow in the middle of the day, with the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway in badly crippled condition, owing to shortage of men. Regular men from the cars were taken off to run snowplows and the service was consequently curtailed. The Narrow Gauge reported all trains late.

Sharp northeast winds are already blowing, in the open stretches of road piling up mounds of snow to a depth of five or six feet, in unprotected localities. Slippery rails, too, are adding to the discomfort of motormen.

DOCTOR FEARS FOR CONDITION OF MRS. SKEELS

Lawrence, Dec. 6. — Fear that the news of the new indictment, charging her with poisoning her brother might have evil if not fatal effect upon Mrs Rosalie May Skeels, confined to the local jail awaiting trial on charges of murder and larceny, Dr. H. W. Manahan, jail physician, has forbidden Mrs. Skeels all daily newspapers which up to yesterday she has read with interest.

The fact that the Hudson County Grand Jury of New Jersey has returned an indictment against her charging her with the death of her brother, Albert Wilkins, is regarded as the most interesting turn the case has taken since the dramatic arrest of the Andover nurse almost on the eve of her marriage to Alfred J. Lundgren of that town.

Mrs. Skeels' only visitor at the House of Correction yesterday was Mr. Lundgren. He talked cheerfully with her, but did not mention the new development.

The accused woman is still in a weakened condition due to an attack of chronic peritonitis and nervous apprehension over the case which comes to trial late in February.

Mr. Lundgren stated that the finding of the New Jersey Grand Jury was the biggest surprise since Mrs. Skeels' arrest.

"It is a good thing they have reported," said Mr. Lundgren today. "This will hurry the trial along and wind affairs up in short order. If Mrs. Skeels had had her trial several weeks ago she would be a free woman today.

"This new charge against Mrs. Skeels is ridiculous. She went to Bayonne to nurse here relatives. Why should she have a hand in the death of her brother? There was no insurance coming to her. He had no money to leave her. What did she get out of his death? Nothing but the grief a sister holds for a departed brother.

"The crimes she is charged with are against human nature to begin with. Albert Wilkins was a sick man for seven and one half years and I might add that he had been dying almost that long.

"When I say the charge of killing her brother is ridiculous I say with it that I am not at all surprised. A jealous woman stands behind the murder charge."

Comb Fire Is Fatal

A celluloid comb catching fire from a gas flame caused the death today of Mrs. Sophia Phelan, sixty-six, wife of William Phelan of No. 66 Lexington avenue, Somerville. Mrs. Phelan was combing her hair on Tuesday evening when the accident happened. Her clothing took fire from the comb.

HOME-MADE COUGH SYRUP

Helps Whole Family, Quickly, Woman's Interesting Letter

Mrs. M. H. Van Wart, Lents, Ore., writes:

"I feel it a duty to write you. Four years ago my husband had a bad cough and found no relief from any cough medicines he tried. Finally tried your Mentho-Laxene and made it up as a cough syrup, and it quickly relieved him. Now, this last winter, my two boys had fearful coughs, and it has relieved them. It also gives me great relief from asthma, from which I suffer in winter time, as you know here we have it so rainy instead of snow, as back east, etc."

This concentrated essence, called Mentho-Laxene, is sold by druggists in 2½-ounce bottles. You mix it at home with syrup, making a whole pint very cheaply, as per directions with each bottle.—Advertisement.

REPLIES BY SOLDIERS' FRIEND

Readers of the Boston AMERICAN are following with daily growing interest the answers of the Soldiers' Friend to queries of every nature, relative to men in the service and their affairs.

The AMERICAN will publish information of especial interest to soldiers and sailors, their families and their sweethearts. Questions concerning service men and their affairs will be answered promptly. Advice on claims, discharges, etc., will be given, as will information concerning hotels and places of entertainment.

All persons desiring to entertain soldiers or sailors in hotels, restaurants or private homes may invite them through the Boston AMERICAN, stating the number of guests desired.

Address all communications to the Soldiers' Friend, Boston AMERICAN, No. 59 Summer street, Boston.

Is the 56th Regiment, C. A. C., in the 56th Artillery Brigade? Would my husband be discharged any sooner because he has a wife and child. ANXIOUS WIFE.

It is not. The 56th Artillery Brigade is part of the 31st Division, which is due to come home soon. The 56th Regiment, C. A. C., has not yet been listed among the home-coming troops. His dependents may give your husband preference in order of discharge once he reaches this country. But no discharges will be given in France.

AN ANXIOUS MOTHER — The Seventh Division is not listed in the Army of Occupation. It is a Regular Army Division, and may not be one of those returned earliest.

GREENWOOD MOTHER — The 26th Infantry is in the Fourth Division, which is part of the Army of Occupation. The Soldiers' Information Bureau, State House, Boston, or the Red Cross may be able to locate him for you.

In what division is the 6th Balloon Company of the Aero Squadron? W. G.

Balloon companies and Aero Squadrons are not attached to divisions.

Can you tell me when my son will be discharged? He enlisted for the duration of the war, and is stationed at Fort H. G. Wright, New York, in the 5th Company, C. A. C. ANXIOUS MOTHER.

General March, chief of staff, has stated that 649,000 men in camps in this country have already been designated for discharge. In your son's case it may be a matter of only a few weeks.

Will you tell me what division the 10th Company, 2d Motor Mechanics, is in? MRS. D. L.

Air forces are not included in combatant divisions. It is understood that the War Department intends to bring them home soon.

MRS. C. F. FRECKLETON—The 187th Infantry is in the 93d Division. It is not yet on its way home.

A SOLDIER'S NEPHEW—The 6th Infantry is in the Fifth Division. Its commander is Lieutenant-Colonel Philip B. Peyton. They were at Cunel when the armistice was signed. The Fifth Division is in the "Army of Occupation" entering Germany.

V. L. M.—The 119th Engineers are in the 41st Division.

ESTHER—He is in the Base Hospital service, and has not started home.

LOUIS NEWMAN—The 59th Infantry is in the Fourth Division, which is a part of the Army of Occupation.

BROTHER OF BOTH—The 4th Ammunition Train is in the 4th Division. Records of the overseas forces do not show that the 48th Artillery has been assigned to a division.

NAN PATTERSON — The 24th Corps Artillery Park is not in a division. It is attached to the Second Army Corps, commanded by Major-General G. W. Read, which includes various infantry divisions. They are not on their way home yet. The 305th Machine Gun Battalion is in the 77th (New York City) Division, which was in General Liggett's Army when the armistice was signed. Its present whereabouts is not reported.

BOSTON AMERICAN READER —The 107th Field Artillery is in the 26th Division. Its commander is Colonel Richard C. Burleson.

My son was drafted for limited service and is at Camp Sheridan, Ala. Are they demobilizing there? Does the government pay transportation home?

MRS. A. K., Lynn.

Yes. But limited service men are not necessarily given preference in the order of demobilization. The government pays transportation home.

Is the Seventh Division in the Army of Occupation? Will it be home shortly?

AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.

No. The date of the division's return has not been announced. It is a regular army division.

Kindly tell me in what division is the 214th Infantry, and, if possible, where they are located?

ONE OF YOUR READERS.

The 314th Infantry is in the 79th Division, which ended the war fighting with the French about Vacherauville.

Can you tell me if the 317th Field Signal Battalion, an outpost unit, is among the units ordered home? Or has it joined the Army of Occupation? Also, will the men enlisted in this battalion for the duration of the war be sent home as soon as possible or held overseas until peace is signed?

A.—The battalion has not yet been ordered home, nor specifically mentioned by General March as a unit of the Army of Occupation. Further announcement of smaller units which will return soon is expected shortly.

AN ANXIOUS WIFE—On your statement you could hardly make a dependency claim. Your husband's discharge from the Motor Transport Corps will therefore come in the ordinary course of the corps' demobilization, the details of which have not yet been completed.

MRS. J. GIRARD—It is not divisionally attached.

MOTHER—The 301st Field Artillery is in the 76th Division.

SOLDIER'S WIFE—If he has been transferred to the Fourth Division, he will probably return with it.

MRS. R. DAVIS—The company is a special detail, and not a divisional unit.

MRS. J. R. MARTIN—The 60th Infantry is in the Fifth Division. The 45th Regiment, C. A. C., is not attached to a division.

MRS. VOLKS—The 306th Field Artillery is in the 77th Division.

To what division is the 52nd Artillery, C. A. C., attached, and have you any idea when it will be home? HELENA.

It is a heavy artillery regiment, not attached to any division. General March has not yet named it as among the earliest to come home.

Is the 55th Artillery, C. A. C., in any division likely to return to America before New Year's.

ANGLIDER'S SISTER.

It is not in any division, and has not yet been officially designated to return. There is a possibility that it will come back early in the new year.

Is the 84th Infantry in the 87th Division, and when are they expected to return from France?

A SOLDIER'S SISTER.

Yes. The 87th is one of the divisions designated to return first.

In what division is Battery A, 58th Artillery, C. A. C.? Will it be necessary for men in this regular Army Regiment to serve the full three years? MRS. C. M. S.

The 58th C. A. C. is not attached to any division. If these men were drafted into the regiment, or enlisted for the duration of the war, they will not have to serve a regular enlistment.

Can you tell me where the 151st Infantry, which left Camp Shelby, Miss., in September, is now? Is it still at Camp Mills or is it gone to France?

A READER.

It is in France with the 34th Division, which has been ordered home. It was at Le Mans, and unassigned, when the armistice was signed.

Is the 26th Division coming back to the United States, or have they been put in the Army Occupation?

A READER, MERRIMAC.

The 26th is in the Army Occupation.

Where is Company D, 345th Infantry, and do you know whether they have been in action or not? BROOKFIELD.

In the 87th Division, which has been ordered home among the first. They were in General Harbord's Service of Supply when the armistice was signed. The division as a whole did not engage.

Christmas Notes:

Glove Bonds are good to give if you do not know the size or are not sure of the color. Buy them in the Glove Shops, street floor.

The 48-hour return rule is waived for Christmas gifts, which may be exchanged for like goods up to the 4th of January.

A whole Christmas list could be checked off on the street floor, alone, with its gloves, stockings, handkerchiefs, umbrellas, jewelry, etc., for men, women and children.

15 shopping days before Christmas.

Filene's

"I wish I could get mad enough about the new Filene rule of charging 50c a month for the active use of charge accounts to cancel my account," said a prominent woman the other day, "but I know in my heart that the rule is fair and while I, like many other women, protest, it is worth more than 50c for the privilege of having a charge account, particularly at a store like Filene's."

These are the exact words, as nearly as we can remember them, of a woman who was buying a coat in Filene's the other day. We believed she missed a point—the 50c a month is not an extra charge; she will actually get merchandise cheaper, because we have separated the cost of merchandise and service. Even if she uses her account every month, she will not be 86 out at the end of the year, but money in because of Filene values.

Toy Shop Notes:

Be sure the kiddies don't miss seeing these things when they come to the Toy Shop, sixth floor:

—Rover, the big Newfoundland dog who wags his head instead of his tail.

—Chemcraft—Ink, ammonia, chemical ice and snow made while you wait.

—the choo-choo trains that go by real electricity and pass through tunnels.

—the big shop of dolls' clothes, including such wonderful things as corsets, tam o'shanters, umbrellas and knit underclothes.

A RETURN OF LACE BLOUSES

What good news for those who plan to give blouses at Christmas!

—It would be hard to imagine a giftier blouse than that sketched. It is dotted lace, heavier though somewhat like point d'esprit, made over flesh Georgette. It buttons in back. $5.75.

$5.75.

Other gift blouses that suggest themselves

What woman would not be overjoyed to receive a French blouse for Christmas? Or what woman to find the very kind she could be proud to give at a price like $5? The women's shop has a quantity of hand-made, white batiste and voile French blouses which cannot be replaced at their present price. $5.

A favorite style is the Peter Pan, with its simple turn-back artist's collar. The women's shop brings out today a new version of the Peter Pan blouse buttoned on the side, in white batiste, at $2.25.

Women's new zephyr wool slip-over sweaters, $6.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor.

$10

Misses' French serge dresses are a Filene value at $10

One Filene shop is devoted solely to misses' inexpensive dresses—$13, in fact, is the top price. These new French serge dresses are in that shop.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor

$25

Misses' coats, big fur-collars, $25

Big dyed coney shawl collars on these warm winter coats of thick, soft cheviots, half-lined. Navy blue or dark brown mixtures. (Sketched.)

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor

Women's braided serge dresses with papillon sash bows, $14

The rather short divided tunic and the flat bow of the material at back are the interesting style points. Sizes 34 to 42, in navy blue.

Boys' Shops

Two things to prepare for at once are just 'round the corner — settled cold weather, and Christmas (only fifteen shopping days away). Fortunately, Boys' Shops are full to overflowing with sensible suggestions that combine a "giftly" flavor with long, hard wear, and are priced as reasonably as these:

Filene values in boys' suits, $12

Good, sensible, serviceable suits. Every one of them substantially made and long-wearing. Mostly cheviots and tweeds in grayish, brownish, and greenish mixtures. Twill lined, some alpaca lined, pockets faced, trousers lined throughout and seams taped. A convincing example of Filene buying power. Ages 7 to 18. $12.

another rare value for little boys at $5

Middy suits of substantial white drilling with dear little fast blue serge collars and cuffs. Band and emblem on sleeve, yoke, front and back. One pair short and one pair long regulation middy trousers. Good for all the year 'round wear. Ages 3 to 10. $5.

full line of good overcoats for big boys

Sizes are complete; models are complete; Filene values are evident in every style and price. Materials are fancy overcoatings made up in popular double breasted styles, with large, convertible collar, belt on back and slash pockets. Ages 11 to 18. $12 up.

boys' shops have complete sizes in

SCHWAB CALLS FOR SPIRIT OF OPTIMISM AND FAIR PLAY BY CAPITAL TO FINISH U.S. SHIP PROGRAM

Charles M. Schwab, head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, paid a flying visit to Boston. Speaking in Providence at a luncheon, he came here to deliver the principal address at the annual banquet of the Boston Chamber of Commerce held at Symphony Hall. He was accompanied by his secretary, John Miller, and by Robert Heinl, editor of the Emergency Fleet News.

"I believe that there has been too much of a tendency to patronize the workingman," said Mr. Schwab during an interview in his private car en route from Providence to Boston, "and I have fought against this in the Emergency Fleet Corporation. This welfare work thing was being overdone.

"The American workingman is educated and highly trained. Indeed, in my mind, he knows his business a great deal better than anyone else does. He is as highly trained in his own line as the university man. Experience shows that he is a great deal more likely to succeed at his chosen line of endeavor than the college trained man.

"As an example of this, some time since I gave a dinner to a prominent European captain of industry, to which eighty-five leading business men were invited. Every man at that table was a leader in his industry. Said the European to me, 'I presume these are all graduates of prominent universities.' I took the trouble to investigate, and I found that out of the gathering there were just three college trained men in the party. The rest had risen from the ranks in shops.

"Mind you, I am heartily in favor of education. But I believe that the average American workingman, trained in practical work, has the right kind of education. I believe he knows what is best for himself and for that reason I believe in the theory of collective bargaining between employes and employers. I believe in personal and individual initiative.

"I believe that the workingman rather resents the efforts which were being made in certain lines of so-called welfare work. He felt that he was being patronized."

NEED FOR SHIPS URGENT.

Asked concerning the future of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, Mr. Schwab said: "The program laid down for the Emergency Fleet Corporation will be carried out to the letter. It will take about a year and a half to complete that program. Of course from now on we shall not work on an emergency basis, but the work will go on steadily, just the same.

"The end of the war has not lessened the need for a great mercantile marine. Indeed the end of the conflict has strengthened that need. Now is the time we need more and more ships to carry American ideals and American products to the four quarters of the earth.

"Many of the shipyards are, of course, under government control, such as Hog Island, and I believe they will remain so permanently. From this time on America will always have need of ships and I trust that never will the day come when she will cease to produce bottoms enough to keep the American mercantile marine one of the great forces of the world."

LAYS STRESS ON OPTIMISM.

Mr. Schwab spoke at a luncheon of the Providence Chamber of Commerce at the Narragansett Hotel. He laid particular stress on the great need of optimism and good nature in America during the reconstruction period. He appealed for better understanding between the workingman and the employer, and set the seal of his approval on collective bargaining between employers and employes. He said that relations between them must be sound basically or like the crusts, they would fall like a house of cards.

He said that he desired to leave no finer monument behind him than a trail of smoking chimneys and blazing furnaces of great industrial establishments he had helped establish.

Loud cheering greeted the remarks by Charles M. Schwab at Symphony Hall. Mr. Schwab was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. President Harriman presided, and the other speakers were Governor Samuel W. McCall and F. C. Walcott of the United States Food Administration.

"It is not the boys who have made munitions or built ships whose names will be written in the golden book," said Mr. Schwab, "but those who have made the supreme sacrifice over there in the trenches. Yet General Edwards or General Foch could have done little without the great industrial army which worked so tirelessly in this country.

"Prior to the war American shipbuilding never exceeded 400,000 tons a year. In October of this year we produced 416,000 tons, or more in that single month than America ever before produced in a whole year. In November, although the figures are not yet available, I feel safe in saying we have produced over 500,000 tons, and in the coming year America will produce between eight and ten million tons.

"This meant the enlistment and creation of energy and enterprise. The shipbuilders of the country cooperated splendidly, in the typical American spirit. Our accomplishments have been due to no single agency but to the wonderfully fine spirit with which the workmen and the merchants co-operated.

"I wish, right here, gentlemen, to pay high tribute to a Boston man to whose devoted efforts has been due in no small measure the success of our program. I refer to Mr. Howard Coonley, Vice-president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, whom I shall always esteem it an honor to number among my best friends.

"I hold it a high honor indeed to have been connected with the one great industry which could be of use to save this great country of ours in its hour of need. Of the munition and similar supplies used by the United States navy the Bethlehem Steel Corporation supplied 60 per cent. Sixty-five per cent. of the munitions used by the United States army were supplied by Bethlehem. And in the great European war more than one-half the munitions and similar supplies came from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

FAVORS PRIVATE CONTROL.

"I believe that we can never develop to their highest point the resources of America unless by private capital and initiative.

"We are now in a period of transition. We have got to get back to a normal basis. A strong mercantile marine will enable us to transport our products to the remotest nations of the earth.

"The attitude of capital and labor is an important factor. I do not believe any general rule can be laid down to be hardfastly followed. Labor must be aroused to its own importance. Labor is a leg of a three-legged stool, and unless that leg exercises properly its functions the stool will not set evenly.

"We must meet and discuss with the laboring man the problems which concern him and us. We must remember that all men are equal in the eyes of humanity, democracy and the law so long as we each give our best efforts for the general good."

Governor McCall made a strong appeal for personal initiative, saying: "Every man should be permitted to build up his character, not in the stifling hothouse of legislation, but in the open."

BOCHES OPPOSE THEIR PRESENT GOVERNMENT

By BERT FORD.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army of Occupation in Germany, Dec. 5—(By Courier to Nancy)—Increasing opposition against the German Workmen's Council is being encountered by the Americans in occupied territory.

At Treves citizens in various walks of life charge that the councils are composed of professional agitators who are trying to further their political ideas and ideals upon the people at the expense of the popular economic ideas they do not represent. The farmers are opposed to the Soviet.

An interesting article on the present status of the German government is furnished by Ferdinand Laven spokesman for the Treves branch of the Workmen's Council.

STATEMENT BY LAVEN.

"Under a decree from the central branch at Berlin the word 'soldier' has been dropped as part of the council's title, and Laven says the Socialists movement was started by the marines in the German navy at Kiel, claiming that an attack had been ordered against the allies and that it was futile. The marines instituted Workmen's Councils in the world that the World war was a capitalistic war. TAVIE BELGE IS PROUD OF HER NATIONALITY

Dislikes Being Called French and Feels Hurt if One Says She's German

Tavie Belge

"Do you suppose it is her real name . . . is that how folks whisper at the Tremont Theatre where the rad-ity Belgia girl is singing the prima donna from . . .

"Of course it isn't her real name. Mlle Belge is no more Belge than she happened to wear both the nationalities on her hands.

"My real name is Octave Bellon," she explained. As she pronounced the last name sounds like Bellow.

"When Mr. Long engaged me after hearing me sing he said that I must never do anything to suggest that announce it in the papers. You have to have a name that will stand in their minds. You are a Belge, suppose we make it Belge. Then we can shorten your first name into Tavie. Some day if you become famous over here we can drop the Belge and just call you 'Tavie.'

"So that's how it happened," she explained. It brought about a serious situation. You can't accept to thus the Belgians are French just because they speak French. If I should be use you as if being English you wouldn't like it, but there is much more difference between Belgian and French than there is between Americans and English.

"People have said that I speak English like a German, and that I look like a German. Somebody said that I was Teutonic in origin, masquerading as a Belge.

"Certainly I am Teutonic. So are the Norwegian and the Americans of Anglo-Saxon origin. I am a Teuton among my race and like Plutarch's Britons in one of the forms of course, are Teutons, but that is a long way from being German. Thus when I talk English I would naturally have a Teutonic accent rather than a Latin accent.

"You don't seem to realize that English and French . . . [illegible]

TAVIE BELGE, who isn't Tavie Belge at all, but just Octave Bellon (Bel-wha, if you please).

I have been in America (or nearly two years) . . . [illegible] . . . I shall go back to my home . . . [illegible] . . . whether the war will be over . . . [illegible] . . . I do not know.

"I didn't know if the Americans would accept me in light opera. I cannot dance . . . [illegible] . . . but whether it reached them or not

APPEAL NEWPORT LABOR CASE TO WASHINGTON

Newport, R. I., Dec. 6.—The demobilization of war forces has created a stir in and about Newport, because of its application to the Naval Torpedo Station, where a 25 per cent. cutdown in the civilian personal is called for by January 1. The machinists appear to have secured a reversal of orders against them, as instructions have come to maintain the manufacture and repair of torpedoes. Today a committee from the Metal Trades Council started for Washington to see if they too could not be placed in the immune list.

WORKMEN NEEDED FOR NEWPORT NAVY STATION

Newport, R. I., Dec. 6.—The contractors for the big addition to the Naval Training Station at Coddington Point are pushing along the work as fast as the condition and number of men on the job will permit. There are 507 mechanics and laborers employed there, but it is said that between 1,500 and 2,000 more could be given employment, and that there is a call for 500 laborers at this time. The work will go into next Summer.

Pen Picture of the New Head of the Treasury

Readers, meet Congressman Carter Glass, Uncle Sam's new financial manager.

The man nominated by President Wilson (by wireless from the George Washington) to be Secretary of the Treasury is from Virginia, the President's native State.

He was born and bred at Lynchburg and will be sixty-one years old the 4th of next January. The treasury portfolio comes as a combined Christmas and birthday gift in advance.

The women will be particularly interested to know that the new Secretary of the Treasury is a married man and father of a soldier. His son is in the American Expeditionary Force.

Physically, he is small and slender and straight. He talks with a delightful Virginia drawl.

But big brawn doesn't drawl. Mentally the new Secretary "hits on all cylinders" as autoists say. He is convincing, clear and forcible speaker, especially along his chosen line of high financial legislation.

The out-going Mr. McAdoo says of him: "He has unusual qualifications for the great office to which the President has nominated him."

His education—public and private schools of Lynchburg.

Business career—Began in a Lynchburg printing office. Learned printing from the ground up. Graduated to newspaper business. Now publishes two Lynchburg newspapers.

Politics—A Virginian "native son." Why ask?

Political experience—State Senate four years; Congressman since 1902. One of only nine members of present House elected for nine continuous terms.

Financial legislation—Member of House Committee on Banking and Finance since his first election to the House and chairman of it since 1919. Helped formulate and piloted through the House the Federal Reserve Act. Framed important amendments to Liberty Loan legislation.

U. S. AND BRITAIN TO RULE WORLD, SAYS WARBURG

By International News Service.

Atlantic City, Dec. 6.—That the United States will be the most powerful financial nation in the world and as such will share with England the domination of world commerce and world politics was the prophecy made here today by Paul M. Warburg, the New York banking authority, and former member of the Federal Reserve Board, before the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"In thinking of financial reconstruction and of the financial world of the future," said Mr. Warburg, "do not too many amongst us have this one thought in mind: Is the United States hereafter going to be the leading financial country. In other words, are we going to take England's place as the foremost financial power?

"Do not these upon forget that if England were to surrender her entire trade and banking to us, we should collapse, and that if we were to unload all our business on her, she would break down under the burden. The whole truth of the matter is that we have both grown to be pillars supporting the same structure and that neither can fall or become weakened without bringing danger or disaster to the other.

"England, herself the owner of billions of foreign obligations, will remain the banking centre of Europe, a world clearing house for goods and credits. I believe that her banks and ours will be found in close cooperation, sharing the burdens of bond issues and credits, and relieving each other as the tide may swing from time to time.

"The ownership of no less than $8,000,000,000 of foreign government obligations (probably billions more before we are quite through), conveys to the government of the United States the possession of a master key controlling the foreign exchange market for some years to come.

"Nobody is wise enough to say today what the ultimate disposition of these foreign holdings will be. Some bonds may be actually paid off when due, others may have to be renewed by our government; in other cases foreign governments, when their bonds mature, as a renewal operation may offer their own bonds for sale to the American investor instead of to our government.

"We may assume, however, with entire confidence that the United States is not going to be a hard or exacting creditor. As military victory could not be won without the loss of lives so financial victory could not be secured without economic sacrifice.

Referring to the railroads, Warburg said it was not merely a question between security holders and shippers but a question which affects on the one hand the very root of the integrity and safety of our future political life, on the other the very foundation of our economic development.

"The next year or two must bring forth legislation, which ought to be for the railroads what the federal reserve act has been for the banks," he continued. "To find the proper formula will be a national contribution of the highest order. It will be a difficult task, but just for that reason one to which the best minds of the country should address themselves without delay.

"The reconstruction period is pregnant with the seeds of good or evil. What it brings forth will depend upon the ear and devotion that the country gives to its problems. If a period as its name indicates, of constructive thought, not for destructive criticism.

"If the flower of our manhood was willing to serve the country during destruction and peace at it did in time of war, and if the country's new and larger duties and its higher conception of deed have taught it to want as its servants nobody but the truly best, then we may look into the future with hope and confidence that we may prove ourselves competent and faithful guardians of the sacred trust that this glorious period has placed in our hands."

CAR SERVICE OF THREE CITIES CRIPPLED

Bay State Plant Down; People in Taunton, Fall River and Quincy Walk

Brockton, Dec. 6.—This city, as well as Taunton, Fall River and Quincy, was left entirely without trolley service at 6.15 o'clock today, when a break in the machinery of the power plant of the Bay State Street Railway at Quincy, completely disabled the plant. Thousands of shoe workers coming into this city by trolley were obliged to walk until jitneys could get to them, or else to walk in on foot.

Shoe factories here did not open until nearly nine o'clock, on account of the inability of operatives to get into the city. All of the traffic in the city has been done today by means of jitneys.

The same story is true of Taunton of Fall River and of Quincy, as these cities derive their power from the Quincy plant.

That the first heavy snowstorm was responsible for the trouble was emphatically denied by John T. Conway, general superintendent of the Brockton division. "The storm had nothing to do with it," he said. "It did not catch the company unaware. We had our snowplows ready and manned and were just about to start out at 6 o'clock when the break came in the Quincy powerhouse."

Between two and three hundred trolley cars are stalled on the tracks. As soon as the power can be turned on these cars will be returned to the barn and the power switched off and diverted to the other cities that are in distress, until conditions can be relieved there. The second motor will be in commission by night so that all lines can be operated during the hours when the factory operatives are returning from their work.

Are Their Old Jobs Waiting For Them?

The Editor of the Sunday Advertiser-American asked the question of a representative group of New England employers.

Talk about thrills! You MUST read their answers. A Boston house of international reputation says, in part:

"We have decided, also, that the salaries of these men shall be increased, because we believe that their army experience will have quickened them mentally and improved them physically, which must contribute a great deal to their value as employes."

If you have been worrying about the immediate future of "the boys," read these Letters From New England Employers, in the

PSYCHIC MASTER OF AMY GILE IS BELIEVED TRAPPED

MANSEEN AT MILL GIRL'S HOME

By WILLIAM M. FLYNN.

Claremont, N. H., Dec. 6.—Information received by the police points to a man in Windsor, Vt., as the erstwhile psychic master of Amy Gile, the little mill girl whose strange case of mental servility to a superior mind has mystified all New England.

This man believed to have been the author of the black hand letter which the girl brought first to Claremont police, but was unable to herself for nearly two months, is also thought to be the person who "put the hand" on Amy Gile's mother, Mrs. Bessie Gile, the night when the Gile home was entered by a masked person, who left a bloody hand print on the door frame.

Although police have failed to find out where he was on those nights since then when strange words were being about Amy Gile, the description of the black hand letter by the girl's family tallies well with that seen one of the greatest stumbling blocks to the author of the letter was Dr. Frank Harold Wood and Sheriff D. Montague Goodhue, both of whom have had letters of their own.

The second letter received by the police was addressed in many ways to that of the first letter, but the seal of the latter, however, was missing. Both letters were printed in block characters, and were unsigned. The second letter, however, was addressed to Amy Gile herself, and was also in block characters.

The police are of the opinion that the letter was known to Walker, whom he has lived several weeks, and was in a position to have the necessary information. Residents of that town speak of him as a man with a quick temper and of irascible temperament.

It is said to have been unfounded with the Gile girl and this infatuation on the part of Harry, was the beginning of the strange and somewhat sinister influence which led to the girl's home to his whim.

VISITORS ANNOY GIRL.

The number of persons who have called at the Gile home either out of curiosity or with a desire of helping the girl get rid of her affliction has been a source of much annoyance both to the girl and to her mother. Amy's pain also has recovered from the shock that the constant streams of visitors eager to discuss the subject has tried her to deny herself to everybody excepting her immediate family and friends.

"I know that if I am left alone I will not have any more trouble," she said today. "I am trying to get all of it out of my head and will overcome it. I have heard what is said by the way they talk about it in the police station. I am one."

I want to get back to work and to get my mind off anything connected with that man, and the money I do not care. I think it will be for me."

Miss Gile also declined to submit to an examination by a physician, stating that she believed the ordeal might send her mind back into the power of the man she dreads.

Although the girl has apparently recovered from her nervous tension, the interest of the community in her case has not abated and the psychic explanation of her peculiar obsession is still eagerly sought. Persons familiar with psychology have stated that the girl was evidently the telepathic victim of some man who by concentration had subjugated himself in her presence almost as well.

2 HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO FIRE BUILDINGS

Claude Wood of Adams street and John Coward of Washington street, Dorchester, were in court today, charged with attempting to set fire to a building. The prisoners, it is said, set fire to paper under the stairs of two tenement buildings at 1237 Dorchester street. The fires were discovered before any damage was done. Later, they were held in $500 for hearing on Thursday.

MISS GILE IN HYSTERICAL STUPOR, SAYS EXPERT

This photograph indicates a condition of hysterical stupor. The idea of hypnotism is out of the question and absurd.

In such words did a noted Boston psychologist and author on neurology, hypnotism and psychology in general, explain the case of the New Hampshire girl, nineteen-year-old Amy Gile, who insists that she is being hypnotized by a man, unknown to her, working at a distance.

That such a disease, half-mental and half-physical, is known to persons of the type of Amy Gile, when they are hysterical, is the opinion of this psychologist, who also believes that the girl is not responsible for her actions when under the spell.

As the doctor explained: "The Young girl who is at home with her mother, evidences the fact that she is a victim of physical and mental disorder. Cases of similar nature suffering from a nervous disease rather rare in this country, although cases of this kind are known. New Mexico, according to newspaper reports, has had some numerous cases of this kind.

"The second requirement for hypnosis is that the person hypnotizing be present with the subject. It can never be done at a distance. Therefore persons [illegible] and [illegible] the newspaper reports [illegible] Mexico [illegible].

United States Judge Atkinson Strongly Endorses Nuxated Iron

Says That The Results He Has Obtained Taking It Have Been Simply Marvelous—That He Has Never Had Recourse To a Medicine Whose Results Were So Satisfactory

Often Increases the Strength of the Weak, Run-Down, Infirm and Aged in Two Weeks' Time

United States Judge C. W. Atkinson, former foreman of West Virginia, Member of Congress and United States District Attorney. Read below his opinion.

of great importance in the progress of mankind is the discovery of Nuxated Iron by Dr. Gerald Maixner. Judge Atkinson has been a well known citizen of this city and a leading member of the bar of the United States District Attorney, and has had vast experience in weighing evidence, in separating the true from the false.

There are thousands of people who are nervous, run down, all in a short time, in a few weeks, and who feel that they are going to pieces, who would be surprised at the results that would follow if they would only take Nuxated Iron. If you are pale, bloodless, thin, weak, nervous, run down, or if you have lost flesh, strength and energy, you should lose no time in getting a few grains of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron will make you feel like a new person in a few days' time in many instances, as it has in thousands of cases where it has been prescribed by the writer.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron which has been used by Judge Atkinson and by thousands of others, is now obtainable in this country. It can be obtained at all druggists. It does not consist of any secret patent nostrum, but is one of the best known preparations of iron that is used by the medical profession. Unlike the older inorganic iron preparations, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make one constipated or upset the stomach. On the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in many forms of indigestion and stomach disorders. Nuxated Iron is now dispensed by most druggists under the positive guarantee that if after using two bottles according to directions you do not feel that it has done you more good than you could possibly believe, your money will be refunded. It is sold in Boston by Liggett's Drug Stores and all good druggists everywhere.

"Cascarets for Mother's Pets"

Careful mothers know that Cascarets in the home mean less sickness, less trouble, less worry, less cost. When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, feverish breath, sour stomach or a cold, a Cascaret quickly and harmlessly "works" the poisons from the liver and bowels and all is well again—only 10 cents a box.

TO MOTHERS! While all children detest castor oil, calomel, pills and laxatives, they really love to take Cascarets because they taste like candy. Cascarets "work" the nasty bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison from the child's tender stomach, liver and bowels without pain or griping. Cascarets never disappoint the worried mother. Each ten cent box contains directions for children aged one year old and upwards.

Millions Use It For Colds

Because "Pape's Cold Compound" relieves cold or grippe misery in a few hours—Really wonderful!

Don't stay stuffed up! Nothing relieves a cold so quickly as to get a few doses of Pape's Cold Compound into your system. Then every tissue in your body will relax; the circulation will be restored; you will breathe freely; your head will clear and the cold will disappear. It is the quickest, surest relief in the world and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept something said to be "just as good." Insist on Pape's Cold Compound and nothing else.

A MOTHER'S STRENGTH

Mother, whose hands rock the cradle, often needs more than ordinary food to help maintain the blood-quality and strength and to assure adequate nourishment to the child. It is as unwise for the mother, as it is dangerous to the child, to place dependence upon alcoholic stimulation, for strength is not found in alcohol.

BOSTON AVIATOR TWICE NEAR TO DEATH

Lieut. Peterson Recovering from Injuries Abroad, Expects to Return Home Soon

Twice narrowly escaping death while operating his huge hydroplane off the coast of England during the war, Lieut. and Aviator William E. Peterson, son of Lieutenant William Peterson of Eugene P. Hyde street, and Harrison avenue, was quite reticent to the Record Herald reporter in regard to his experiences while in the service of Uncle Sam.

Lieutenant Peterson has probably had one of the most wonderful air careers of any aviator in the service. In February he narrowly escaped death in the North Sea when his plane exploded and he was rescued only after having passed five hours in the water.

But on October 16 he met with another accident which would have put an ordinary man out of commission. Operating a big Caproni type hydroplane, six passenger capacity, outfitted for bombing raids and assisting in convoying troop ships to safe harbor he was blown up. His radio operator was killed. The accident happened off the coast of Zeebrugge and Dunkirk.

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY.

On October 26 he wrote to his parents that he was on the road to recovery and for them not to worry, as he was sitting up and expected to be back in the fight again. Since that time the armistice was signed.

At the time of writing he was certain of his discharge, as hospital together with other officers of the squadron at the time of the accident. He was seriously injured receiving concussion of the brain and a fractured skull, which rendered seven stitches necessary to close the wound.

Within the week that I would take more than a Chopin's Interdrop to a mile an hour by leaping me to it. It is not a thin thing but two very narrow escapes.

In writing of his experiences, Lieutenant Peterson says:

All I can say is I am one of the first to reach the Yanks coming over here. I have met a lot of American officers and have talked with them, and I must say that I feel that you are an American citizen who has had a chance of staying up against these boys.

GOD POPULAR NOW, SAYS U. S. SOLDIER

London, Dec. 6—God is more popular in the army than he has been for a long time, is the way an American soldier sums up one of the outstanding results of America's participation in the war.

Dr. Bert Newton, just returned from France as the head of a hospital unit, Temple gave the quotation, saying one of the transformations he found in America.

"The agnostic, atheist and professed scoffer is silent. I found the people of the unimaginable dread which all is walking in the shadow of death in a war and in high spirits in which she has united the whole of war and triumphed over the Americas."

150 SCHOOL CHILDREN USE LIQUOR AND DRUGS

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 6—The report of Miss Alice Smith, principal of a public school here that 150 of her pupils had been drinking liquor and using drugs has created a furore in Passaic. Several investigations were already under way today. The director of public safety and Dr. Fred Shoy, a prominent physician, are among those investigating the case. Miss Smith submitted signed statements by 150 pupils in which they obtained the drugs and liquor.

REPLACE WESLEYAN BELL STOLEN 56 YEARS AGO

Middletown, Ct., Dec. 6—An interesting story came to light today in connection with a new bell purchased for Wesleyan by members of the class of 1863. The donors have confessed that while they were students some fifty-six or fifty-seven years ago they played a prank on the school by stealing the bell from the tower of South College. Recently the bracket fell to the ground and decided to buy the new chimes in "square" things.

Tomorrow morning, instead of ... upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to flush the entire system and wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of bowels all the indigestion, poisons, sour bile and toxins that clog the delicate, sweetening and purifying five-foot alimentary canal.

Those who do not wish to take internal bathing may obtain a similar result by drinking a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it before breakfast each morning for a week. It is said that men who have been accustomed to drinking coffee at breakfast, and who have taken a dose of limestone phosphate in hot water each morning for a few weeks, lose all desire for coffee, and prefer the hot water drink, finding that it gives them a splendid appetite for breakfast, and that it helps them wonderfully in many ways.

United States Judge Atkinson Strongly Endorses Nuxated Iron

Says That The Results He Has Obtained Taking It Have Been Simply Marvelous—That He Has Never Had Recourse To a Medicine Whose Results Were So Satisfactory

Often Increases the Strength of the Weak, Run-Down, Infirm and Aged in Two Weeks' Time

United States Judge Charles M. Atkinson, former Governor of West Virginia, Member of Congress and United States District Attorney. Read below his opinion of NUXATED IRON.

[illegible] of great importance to the public generally should be the opinion given of Nuxated Iron by Charles M. Judge Atkinson has been for many years a Judge of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia at Washington, D. C., Member of Congress and United States District Attorney, in which capacities he had vast experience in weighing evidence, in separating the true from the false.

[illegible] are physicians, people who are nervous, run down, half sick and who look strength and vitality as if they had something to hide, and who feel that they are going to pieces right before their very eyes, but who do not know what to take, and who have somehow or other been led to believe that Judge Atkinson's endorsement of Nuxated Iron [illegible] is worth while and they should try Nuxated Iron and be convinced that it will make them well and strong and keep them so.

[illegible] a Spring I have tried your Nuxated Iron and I must say that it has given me more strength and vitality than I have had for many years. I have taken three bottles and feel that I am entirely cured of my Winter [illegible]. The results have been simply marvelous. I have never had occasion to use a medicine which has done me as much good as Nuxated Iron has and I can recommend it to my friends in the highest terms. I have taken nothing else during the past month and feel that Nuxated Iron has done the work. It is my opinion that if people would only take Nuxated Iron when they first begin to feel run down, nervous and weak, they would not have to go through the suffering that I did before I found it. I have taken pleasure in recommending Nuxated Iron to a great many people since I found it for its wonderful tonic effects."

If you do not wish to make a full test of Nuxated Iron, but are content to accept the judgment of others, we refer you to the following: Mr. [illegible] of Nuxated Iron, and who is well and hearty and is the picture of health today, writes: "I was a sufferer from indigestion and dyspepsia for [illegible] years. I was so bad that I was unable to eat anything that agreed with me. I was all run down, nervous and weak, and had no strength or ambition. I was induced to try Nuxated Iron and after taking it for a few weeks I was entirely cured of my indigestion and dyspepsia. I have gained in weight and strength and feel like a new man. I cannot say too much for Nuxated Iron."

Manufacturers Note: Nuxated Iron which has been used by [illegible] is not a secret remedy but is widely prescribed by physicians in their regular practice. It is dispensed by most druggists. Its tonic effect is usually prompt and pronounced. Nuxated Iron is not a patent medicine nor a stimulant. It is a true tissue builder and strength creator. Its manufacturers have such great confidence in its merits that they are willing to return the purchase price to any dissatisfied purchaser after thirty days' use if it does not at least double the strength of such persons as are not organically diseased. They also guarantee that any [illegible] who will regularly take Nuxated Iron for thirty days can materially increase their strength in that time or the money will be refunded. Nuxated Iron is now obtainable in this city at all druggists.

BOSTON AVIATOR TWICE NEAR TO DEATH

Lieut. Peterson Recovering from Injuries Abroad, Expects to Return Home Soon

Twice narrowly escaping death while operating the huge hydroplane off the coast of France and England during the war, Lieutenant Aviator William P. Peterson, son of Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, 19 E. Heath street, and Harrison avenue, writes home that he is on the road to recovery and expects to arrive in this city some time during the winter.

Lieutenant Peterson has probably had one of the most unusual careers of any young aviator in the service. In February he narrowly escaped death in the North Sea, when his plane fell into the water and he was rescued only after having passed five hours in the water.

But on October 14 he met with another accident which would have put an end many a man out of commission for life, falling a long distance to the ground, six passenger capacity, outfitted for bombing raids and assisting in out-of-town flights to and from harbor, he was badly shook up. His right [illegible] operation for [illegible] was performed on the coast of Zeebrugge and Dunkirk.

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY.

On October 26 he wrote to his parents that he was on the road to recovery and for them not to worry, as he was sitting up and expected to be back in the air soon. Since that time the armistice has been signed.

At the time of writing he was convalescing in a hospital together with other officers of his plane at the time of the accident. He was seriously injured in the concussion of the brain and a fractured skull which required seven stitches to close the wound.

Without knowing that it would take more than a thousand feet drop in a little more than a minute to bring him to earth again, he says he had a number of narrow escapes.

In writing of his experiences, Lieutenant Peterson says:

"All I can say is I am one of the first to reach the Yanks coming over here. I have met a lot of American officers and we talked with them, and it makes you glad to feel that you are helping in forming Pershing's army of a chance of standing up against those boys."

PARTICIPATED IN RAIDS.

During his service Lieutenant Peterson has been engaged in important work in the naval division supervising the construction of important [illegible] coast. He has participated in a number of London, and [illegible] bombing raids to ward off [illegible] bombing expeditions.

150 SCHOOL CHILDREN USE LIQUOR AND DRUGS

Lassale, Ill., Dec. 6.—The report of Miss Anna Smith, principal of a public school here that 150 of her pupils had been drinking liquor and using drugs has created a furore in Passaic. Several investigations were already under way today. The director of police safety and the [illegible] superintendent of schools, are among those investigating the case. Miss Smith submitted signed statements from pupils telling where they obtained the drugs and liquor.

REPLACE WESLEYAN BELL STOLEN 56 YEARS AGO

Middletown, Ct., Dec. 6.—An interesting story came to light today in connection with a new set of chimes purchased for Wesleyan by members of the class of 1867. Playing time—2:15 p. m.

Headed by one of the best coaching staffs that has developed a service football team this Fall, the Mineola Fliers from Hazelhurst Field, L. I., will go against Boston College at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon with an all-star lineup.

Larry Bankart, old Dartmouth star, now with the Sanitary Corps, has rounded out a formidable football team at Mineola, and has had assistance from Lawson Robertson, successful Penn track coach.

There isn't a weak point in the Boston College forward cordon, with Louis Urban and Paul Ryan on the ends; Con O'Brien and Arthur Cusick at the tackles, Captain Frank Morrissey and Walter Collins carrying the pounds of beef and brawn into action with every guard play and Francis Bowler as the pivot.

KILONIS TOSSES RESS AFTER A ROUGH SCRAP

John Kilonis vanquished Cyclone Ress in a one-fall catch-as-catch-can go-as-you-please match before a big turnout of wrestling fans at the Grand Opera House. The bout was even more "noisy" than anticipated, the principals going as far as to crack each other on the "beak" with chairs. Kilonis finally forced Ress to the mat with a double wrist lock in 45 minutes.

Pinky Gardner won from Al Ventres in straight falls. It was a fast, scientific encounter.

MIDDLESEX SEVEN HAS FOUR LETTER MEN BACK

The Middlesex School's hockey squad is getting ready to start practice. Captain William Jenks, Theodore Romaine, Charley Brown and Tom Carnegie are the letter-men available for the seven. Manager-Coach A. V. Galbraith is busy booking games and is confident he will complete an attractive schedule.

Keep 'Em Smiling

By NICK FLATLEY

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE—

With Regards to M. Birge.

The Baseball Scribe

How would you like to be a scribe and know the kings of swat,
And talk to all the stars and bugs, who drink the drinks you've bought?
You needn't do a single thing, but please a million guys
And answer countless arguments to show that you are wise.

You sell a team, then buy it back, then call the whole deal off;
Then try to furnish alibis for magnates who just "quaff."
You daily boost a bunch of birds, who make your conscience roar,
And have to come up smiling when they calmly ask for more.

A million other trying things to harass your young life—
With all the world declared at peace, you're still embroiled in strife,
Oh, it's great to be a baseball scribe, and tell the world each day
The facts of things, and have the crowd just laugh at what you say.

Big B. B. Year for Boston Ahead.

Boston, according to all appearances, is about to have one of the biggest baseball seasons in history, which is saying something. In the first place the Hub will be represented by at least three managers, to wit:

Tris Speaker, who will boss the Cleveland Indians.
Fred Mitchell, who will head the champion Cubs again.
Jack Barry, who will in all likelihood come back to lead the champion Red Sox.

Further, several of the new directors that are to be announced will owe most of their baseball fame to Boston teams and things like that, to wit:

Johnny Evers will likely get a place as the pilot of one of the St. Louis outfits.

Hank Gowdy, the first of the athletes to join the colors, is being heralded as a future manager and, if he wishes, will undoubtedly land somewhere.

Jack Slattery, latest of Brave Right Eyes, is another local diamond demon whose name crops up wherever possible managers are mentioned.

With these six mixed into the thick of things, it's a cinch that the Boston baseball fan will have plenty to keep him interested after the magnates meet and have their fights and get the old game going again.

Stallings' Contract Still Working.

From New York and other rumor centres comes the word that Gowdy will probably supersede Stallings with the Braves. But the makers of this particular report entirely overlook the fact that the Stallings contract has not worn itself out as yet.

George T. is hardly ready to retire from the pastime, and will undoubtedly hang on in Boston unless he gets an entirely unexpected offer from some other spot, which is not at present evident on the baseball map. Chicago, New York, the two cities that can be considered financially able to meet the Stallings terms, are all set in the matter of managers.

We have our own hunch that Hennery Gowdy will rejoin the Braves as a catcher, and just go through, possibly being paid a manager's salary. Hank was that sort of a chap before he went over there, but, of course, war may have changed him.

154 GAMES IN '19 IS PROPHECY OF HON. BAN

Chicago, Dec. 6.—B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, has issued a formal call for the annual meeting of the circuit in Chicago December 12.

At the same time Johnson added that there would be no joint meeting with representatives of the National League. The playing schedule for 1919, Johnson said, probably will be 154 games, same as heretofore.

A committee will be appointed by the American League to confer with representatives of the National League regarding the schedule and the player limit for next year.

Johnson expressed doubt of the accuracy of the reports that Tris Speaker is to succeed Lee Fohl as manager of the Cleveland Indians. "I think this is hardly likely," was Johnson's comment.

COOGAN AND HARTLEY PUT UP TAME BATTLE

Lowell, Dec. 6.—Mel Coogan of Brooklyn and Pete Hartley of New York boxed twelve tame rounds to a draw at the Crescent A. C. In the eight-round semi-final Frank Mollins of Lowell shaded Kid Francis.

BUMKIN ISLAND TEAM AT BEST FOR NEWPORT

Bumkin Island feels supremely confident of having within its confines a real championship aggregation of pigskin chasers. They consider that the win over Camp Devens, at Salem recently, entitles them to consideration in that class.

They anticipate strengthening that claim tomorrow at Newport when they tackle Fred Walker's Second Naval District Team.

Dr. J. M. F. English, medical and athletic officer at the island, is taking his full squad to Newport for the game. Both he and Ensign Madden, football coach, are sure of a triumph. Bumkin has lost but one game this year and that to the Radio team by a close score.

Lieutenant English is sure his outfit can defeat the Radio boys and nothing would satisfy him more than a post season game with Gunner McMahon's outfit. Even though that game is decided then they claim the title by virtue of their win from Devens, which team defeated Radio.

BOBBY JOSEPHS BOXES GIRARD IN C. A. C. RING

CARD AT COMMERCIAL A. C

MAIN EVENT—Al Girard of the North End vs. Bobby Josephs of the South End, ten rounds.
SEMI-FINAL.—Dave Powers of Malden vs. Letty Major of North Adams, ten rounds.
SECOND PRELIMINARY — Leo Downey of Roxbury vs. Dusty Kroll of Maine, ten rounds.
CURTAIN-RAISER—Dan Kramer of the West End vs. Danny Donovan of Cambridge, six rounds.

By RINGSIDE.

The card at the Commercial A. C. tonight is particularly spicy, and if there isn't plenty of pep in the bouts the fans will be greatly mistaken.

Bobby Josephs, hard-hitting little South Ender, is out to duplicate his previous performance with Al Girard of the North End. Bobby's friends are confident he will win, while Girard's followers are just as sanguine. All will be the fair-haired boy.

They point out to the fact that Girard was sick and unable to do himself justice when they met before and wasn't Al just as fresh as Bobby when the affair ended? That's their argument. The winner will know he's been in a fight; that's a sure thing.

Dave Powers is slated for some bumps when Letty Major gets his pump handles working, is the report. As Dave doesn't take much stock in reports, he isn't worrying a great deal. According to past performances, Major is no mean opponent, at that.

Leo Downey and Dusty Kroll should keep the members on edge during their ten-round affair, as they both possess a healthy kick, the brand of "going" that's pleasing to the fans.

Dan Kramer of the West End, who has been performing like a thoroughbred, opens up with Danny Donovan of Cambridge for six rounds; that is, it's scheduled for six rounds. We doubt if it goes four.

* * *

The Central A. C. which stages its first show Monday night at the Park Riding Academy in the Fenway starts off with a bang-up card having Willie Jackson of New York and Sailor Sacco of East Boston, in the feature 12-round number.

Sacco handed the fans a surprise when he took all kinds of liberties with Jackson in a four-round bout a few weeks ago.

Two six-round bouts are also on the card. Jim Kramer of the West End meets Kid Lee of Chelsea in one event, while Bert Jones of Revere and Young Dooley of Eight Pounds Burns followers weren't satisfied with the decision and asked for another go. Forfeits of $50 have been put up by both men, guaranteeing to weigh 132 pounds ringside

Nation's Debt of Gratitude to the Salvation Army Is Great

Every woman of the Salvation Army sent to the front—more than 5,700 of them—was a capable cook, and every one of them before going to the front was required to learn first aid to the wounded.

So it happened that when the unexpected battle of Chateau Thierry came all the trained women who had been cooking pies and doughnuts for our doughboys in the 1,210 hutments, dugouts and rest rooms of the Salvation Army ceased to be cooks, became nurses and promptly and efficiently took care of over four thousand wounded.

The ninety thousand members and adherents of the Salvation Army in America must now feel a very high sense of pride that the men and women whom they sent to the front were able to render this inestimable service at the crisis of the great war. For it was the turning point of the war when the Germans, making a final desperate drive for Paris, in July last, threw their legions of storm troops against the allied wall of defence at Chateau Thierry. They pushed the wall over, BUT IT FELL THE WRONG WAY. From behind that wall came the U. S. Marines and the splendid Twenty-seventh Division (Yaphank troops).

No tribute is better deserved than the message received by cable by Commander Evangeline Booth on Thanksgiving Eve from General Pershing in France:

The American expeditionary forces thank you for all the noble work the Salvation Army has done for them from the beginning.

Raymond B. Fosdick, chairman of the Commission of Training Camp Activities of the War Department, writes from France:

Somewhat to my surprise, I found the Salvation Army probably the most popular organization in France with the troops. It has not undertaken the comprehensive program which the Y. M. C. A. has laid out for itself; that is, it is operating only in three or four divisions, while the Y. M. C. A. is aiming to cover every unit of troops.

But its simple, homely, unadorned service seems to have touched the hearts of our men. The aim of the organization is, if possible, to put a worker and his wife in a canteen or a centre. The woman spends her time making doughnuts and pies and sews on buttons. The man makes himself generally useful in any way in which his service can be applied.

I saw such places in dugouts 'way up at the front, where the German shells screamed over our heads with a sound not unlike a freight train crossing a bridge. Down in their dugouts the Salvation Army girls imperturbably handed out doughnuts and pies; in Summer, cool lemonade; in Winter, hot coffee and chocolate.

Such service is beyond all computation. It has brought the touch of home and love right up to the men on the firing line. As Judge Ben Lindsey, just returned, says:

Everybody who comes back uses the expression, "I am just crazy about ——" this, that or the other thing that excites their admiration. Well, I want to say that I am "crazy" about the Salvation Army as I saw it and mingled with it and the doughboys in the trenches.

Miss Evangeline Booth in a message to the paper says:

With the world war ended, but with many tremendous problems to solve, I am sure it behooves every woman in the United States to apply her mind and energies more than ever for an intelligent application of relief and the extension of a practical service to the American men who have made such wonderful history in the army and navy.

When the hand of military discipline is once lifted from our army and navy, and the battle cry becomes one not of the battlefield, but of the home fields, many pitfalls develop, and the danger rises of having thousands of men ruined in the process. I say that if the American nation is to err at all, let it err on the side of vigilance and caution.

There can be no doubt that as a result of the War of the Revolution, and the War of the Rebellion in 1861, thousands of men who offered their lives on the altar of freedom became so diverted in their purpose through the years that followed as to contribute as much suffering and misery and heartaches and disappointments as the wars themselves had caused.

The Salvation Army has done its utmost to serve in a practical and sensible way the man under arms and will struggle to the extent of its ability to help the soldier and the sailor back from the military world to the world of peace.

Margaret Bourne, manager of the Home Service for American Soldiers Abroad, No. 21 Avenue Des Champs-Elysees, Paris, writes:

I do not know the name of the person to address connected with the Salvation Army, but I wish you would say that every soldier I have met in my six months' war work has nothing but praise for it. They cannot say enough for what it does and the manner in which it does it. Without any doubt, the Salvation Army is the most-beloved society over here in the eyes of our boys.

Lieutenant-Colonel George B. McClellan, formerly Mayor of New York, writes:

All the officers I have talked with are agreed that for coolness under fire, cheerfulness under the most adverse conditions, kindness, helpfulness and real efficiency, the Salvation Army workers are unsurpassed.

All of these things move us very deeply, as we are sure they will move every reader of the Boston AMERICAN.

Mr. Hearst is sending a special subscription of five thousand dollars to the Salvation Army. He feels that he cannot make less recognition than this of the unique work of that army, since he has already contributed like sums to the admirable work of the Knights of Columbus, Jewish War Relief and other relief organizations.

DON'T GET IN A COAL HOLE

Are you one of the smart alecks who won't listen to government advice on the coal situation? Is "they can't tell you" the drift of your speech?

If you can see an inch from your nose, be wise and put in your order.

You are just as much a free man by following this advice as you would be to ignore it.

No one is compelling you, you understand, either way, but you will find it more conducive to peace of mind, when the long, cold Winter comes, to be sure that you did your part to make your family comfortable.

It behooves us as loyal Americans to stand by our government's advice.

The government has a reason back of its advice.

Do your part.

All hands, all together and NOW.

Will You Not Please Send a Contribution to the Boston American's Christmas Basket Fund?

Every year the AMERICAN has sent a basket of Christmas food with chicken and other accompaniments of a Christmas dinner to the worthy poor in this community.

There are thousands of them here whose condition is really a stain on Christianity and on our boasted civilization. There are thousands of families within the very heart of Boston who will not have the means of enjoying a decent Christmas meal.

If you do not believe this statement investigate for yourself. Go to the crowded sections of the poorer districts and see the evidences of poverty there. What you will see will be perfectly respectable, honest, honorable poverty which has come to the unfortunates in spite of their industry, in spite of their will to labor and in spite of their good citizenship. Even in the case of the drunkard and the shiftless the children are not to blame. You will find poverty and, in this case, the most distressing kind of poverty, here and there in the neighborhoods where it is least expected, and with this poverty goes both the distress of body and of mind. The humiliation of it is far more poignant than the physical suffering, and prohibits the seeking for aid which would disclose the need for it.

There is no one who can afford a Christmas dinner and who can afford to make a few presents who cannot afford to spare SOMETHING for the Christmas Basket Fund. It is trite to tell you how much better your Christmas dinner will taste if you know when you sit down to it that you have contributed something that day to the happiness of a family not so fortunate.

Give us a little help. We ask for help appreciating fully how much you have probably done for the nation in the purchase of Liberty Bonds and in the payment of high war prices. On the other hand, your wages have been high and your employment has been steady, and you must have SOMETHING to spare, even though it be very little, for the Christmas Basket Fund.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Demobilization

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Arthur Brisbane, in a recent issue of your valuable paper, suggests a course for the United States demobilization work, which, while containing valuable hints, fails to my mind to present the best course.

If the pay of a common soldier is now thirty dollars a month in cash, and the government must provide his food, and such shelter as he gets, why not bring him home, pay him say five dollars a day for a period each month totaling his present expense to the government, and set him to work at some useful and much-needed occupation like that of draining swamps; building great reservoirs; making roads; deepening our waterways, or some other enterprise which would benefit all the people?

In the time which his present cost to the government would not thus secure, he could be looking out for permanent employment. The community would be saved the menace which idle men — whether soldier or civilian—present because they are idle, needed work would be accomplished, and the soldier would enjoy unusual opportunity for securing other useful employment if desired.

"Do not beat or prod the animals with sharp sticks or clubs. Bruised meats are condemned and their food value is lost."

IT WAS on a card.
ON THE wall.
OF THE waiting room.
OF A railway station.
AND WHEN I read it.
I WAS so pleased.
THAT I copied it down.
IT MADE me so glad.
THAT THERE was some one.
WHO WORKED for the railroads.
WHO HAD a soul.
AND WHO knew.
HOW THE pride of a cow.
OR OF a steer.
MIGHT BE made to suffer.
IF IT happened.
THAT JUST at that moment.
IT WAS about to die.
AND BE shipped away.
TO DO its bit.
THAT SOME one.
SHOULD LOOK it over.
AND FIND some marks.
WHERE IT had been prodded.
WITH A sharp stick.
OR MAYBE a club.
AND THAT some one.
SHOULD RAISE his hand.
AND SAY:
"IT IS not good.
"WE SHOULD eat this animal.
"HE HAS been bruised."
CAN'T YOU imagine.
HOW MUCH better.
IT WOULD have been.
IF THE happy cow.
OR THE happy steer.
IN THE full knowledge.
OF ITS forthcoming journey.
IN A nice loobox.
ON A nice train.
OR A nice boat.
SHOULD TROT right along.
WITH ITS head up.
AND "GO Well."
WITHOUT A bruise.
FROM A sharpened stick.
OR ANYTHING.
EXCEPTING THE place
WHERE THE butcher hit it.
WITH THE axe.
AND AS I sat.
IN THE waiting room.
AND SCANNED the card.
ABOUT THE cattle.
A WOMAN came.
WITH A small child.
THAT SHE was dragging.
BY THE right arm.
AND I said to my wife.
"IT'S TOO bad.
"IT HADN'T been twins.
"SHE MIGHT have used them.
"FOR INDIAN clubs."
AND I thought to myself.
HOW MUCH better.
TO BE a cattle.
WITH SIGNS to protect you.
THAN A small child.
WITH A rubber arm.

I THANK you.

VIVISECTION NEEDLESS AS IT IS CRUEL

By Helen Bedini

THROUGH all the ages of evolution the conception that there can be such a thing as cruelty to animals that should be punished by law came into the world only within the memory of many persons now living.

George T. Angell marshalled the public sentiment and the wealth of Massachusetts behind him; made it a penal offence to introduce vivisection into the instruction of any institution in Massachusetts. And would you believe it, that little law against vivisection in public schools in the one State of Massachusetts is the one bit of legislation, and the whole of it, that has ever been enacted as yet in this great, enlightened, self-respecting United States of America. So far as vivisection is concerned, we are still as universally unconscious of and indifferent to the most excruciating of all cruelty that goes on day by day in the hundreds of medical schools and other hundreds and thousands of boards of health laboratories.

Inexpressible Agony

For what is vivisection? Dr. Albert Leffingwell, a man of eminence in his profession, in the great work he has left behind him, "An Ethical Problem," sums up the indictment against vivisection. Man's two most intelligent dumb friends, the dog and the horse, are every day subjected in our medical school laboratories, to countless hours of inexpressible agony; and often not for the sake of investigation, but simply that students may become proficient in operating on living flesh or witness the cruel demonstration of psychological facts, already well established.

Now, what is the excuse tendered for such negations of our assumed Christian civilization? It is that only by such means can scientific progress be made and the medical care of our precious selves be forwarded. The best answer to that excuse was written years ago by Mark Twain, when he said: "I believe I am not interested to know whether vivisection produces results that are profitable to our human race, or doesn't. To know that the results are profitable to our race would not remove any hostility to it. The pain which it inflicts upon unconsenting animals is the basis of my enmity toward it, and it is to me sufficient justification of the enmity without further looking."

Nobody Should Do It

Dr. Henry J. Bigelow, of Boston, one of the leading physicians of his day, delivered an address before the Massachusetts Medical Society in 1871, in which he said of vivisection: "I have heard it said that somebody must do it. I say it is needless. NOBODY SHOULD DO IT. If hospital service makes young students less tender of suffering, vivisection deadens their humanity and begets indifference to it."

Dr. Leffingwell, the most eminent surgeon in America in his day, was professor of surgery in Harvard University and the leading member of its faculty. In his last, ripest work on "Surgical Anæsthesia," Dr. Leffingwell left on record his strongest condemnation of the abuses of vivisection and the cruelties necessary to it: "VIVISECTION IS NOT AN INNOCENT STUDY," he wrote, "the law should interfere."

The alleged great discoveries made through vivisection, oftener than not, turn out to be as futile as the famous turtle serum, which, a few years ago, was the wonder and now the laughing stock of the world. Tests made on animals often work contrary wise when applied to the human system. Every claim made for vivisection can be, and is, controverted by men of science and authority.

"LOVE" OR HER THRONE QUEEN'S DILEMMA

Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, has a German husband, which, together with the proximity of her country to Germany and the ties of blood, account for the Pro-German feeling in the Netherlands. When the Kaiser sought a sanctuary he chose Holland. How the Queen finds she must either give up her husband or her throne will be described in a special article in the next

"EIGHTEEN'S" PROBLEM IS HARD, YET HOPEFUL

By Winifred Black

HERE is a letter that ought to make every selfish, discontented, restless, empty-hearted girl in the world blush for shame.

And, after she has blushed long enough, go down on her knees and ask forgiveneess for her own folly, and help to be worthy of even a little bit of happiness.

Dear Winifred Black:

Can a person rise above their surroundings? Of course, we have all read of Abraham Lincoln and a few others, but in this century, when so many are educated and talented, can one who has only brains and ambition climb?

Six years ago I graduated from grammar school. My mother died shortly before that, so that I could not go to high school, although the teacher tried very hard to have me go. I have a brother and sister younger than I, so I had to care for them. I am now working in a store during spare time.

I want to go back to school next year, for one must be educated, but every one says that I am too old and I will be getting married soon, and so why bother?

When I look at my life and a great many others, I just want to run away anywhere to escape such a small existence.

Where I live is small in every way. The people do not believe in striving for success. They believe that eat well, sleep well and you are happy. But I'm not. I hate it all.

A World of Hope

We have nothing, only the necessities of life, not even a musical instrument. Then they say I should be happy. I can go and come when I please. I have my own money, can buy and make all my clothes, although I am up until after midnight very often sewing and ironing or mending. I have to keep cleaning and pressing, washing and ironing the whole family's clothes to keep us looking well, and keep cleaning the house so that it will be bright, as it needs papering and painting.

Every one remarks, "My, what a happy family," and I'm not happy. I want to get away from it all and see something. All my girl friends have such nice homes and such lovely, soft hands that I have to keep mine behind my back so that no one will notice—for once they did see them and they pitied me, and I can't bear that—and I am even ashamed to invite them to my home. And the few boys that I would notice, I don't think they would care to call again.

Now, my dear Winifred Black, will you answer my question? Will I ever have what I desire? Did you ever know any one to have got what they wished before they had grown too old to enjoy it?

Remember that I have two children to take care of and a father.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

EIGHTEEN.

Hope for you, Eighteen—there's more than hope for you—there's a certainty for you, a certainty of success and prosperity and full-hearted, deep-joyed happiness, which never comes to any one except those who have had to struggle for it—through bad luck and bad environment and hard circumstances and poverty and misunderstanding and lack of appreciation.

I'll tell you what to do, Eighteen. Don't listen a word to what the narrow-minded, blind, deaf and dumb people around you try to tell you to do.

Follow your own conscience and your own good sense, and your own honest and praiseworthy ambition.

Learn Something Well

Take the best kind of care of the little brother and sister in the system. Send them to school with shining faces and light hearts and comfortable, well-fed bodies. Make a pleasant home for your father, and at night, when the table is cleared and the dishes are done, put on your hat and coat and go straight down to the nearest night school, and study and work and improve yourself.

Take a course in business training if you want to; it will be a great help to you and make you independent, if your father should marry again. Learn how to do something well and you'll never have to ask anybody for anything.

Good luck to you, Eighteen, and plenty of it.
